MOSSOLINI'S WAR CHIEF QUILTS, IS REPORT

Cruickshank Had Tough Struggle to Safety, Says Forgy

AGED BANKER SURMOUNTED HUGE ODDS

Santa Ana Walks Into Camp While Rescuers Search in Snow
HIKES ENTIRE DAY
Last One to See Hunter Amazed to Hear Where Missing Man Stayed

To reach the shelter of the look-out cabin on Brokeoff mountain Angus J. Cruickshank, Santa Ana banker, lost for three days and nights in a blizzard that swept Lassen Volcanic park area, was forced to fight his way through almost impenetrable underbrush and over lava beds that would have taxed the strength of the hardest mountain climber.

Fred Forgy, Santa Ana attorney and last member of the hunting party to see the banker before he dropped from sight last Sunday at noon, was amazed when told today where Mr. Cruickshank had spent the three days he was missing.

Walks Into Camp
While searching parties were combing the mountain area and fearing that Mr. Cruickshank was injured or possibly dead, the banker walked into camp at McGowan lake about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and waited for the return of rescue parties. He had been fighting his way through snow and down the mountain side down and was extremely tired but otherwise unhurt.

Mr. Cruickshank is expected to arrive in Santa Ana either tomorrow night or Saturday morning, Mrs. Cruickshank said this morning.

The look-out cabin, according to Mr. Forgy, is more than three miles from the point where the banker tied his horse Sunday noon and started out on foot in an effort to pick up the trail of a deer.

Long, Hard Hike
To reach the shelter, according to Mr. Forgy, Mr. Cruickshank had to fight his way through almost impenetrable underbrush and over lava beds before reaching the trail leading to the cabin. Once on the trail he had to hike through a foot of snow to an elevation of 10,400 feet before reaching the shelter.

The only explanation of the near-tragedy that Mr. Forgy could give was, that after leaving him, Mr. Cruickshank picked up the trail of a deer and followed it to a point beyond the scheduled rendezvous with other members of the party.

The area in which the party was hunting on Sunday was new country to the men, he said, and Mr. (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

14-STORY BUILDING MOVED

Five-Foot Job Cost $70,000

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17. (AP)—The gargantuan task of joining together a 14-story building in downtown Los Angeles that had a gaping, five-foot split in its middle, was completed today.

Three-fourths of an inch at a time, the 10,000,000-pound section of the office building was moved on giant screw jacks, up against the other section to make it conform to requirements occasioned by the widening of a street.

Chancellor of Austria and Cabinet Resign; Order New Set-Up

VIENNA, Oct. 17. (AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and his cabinet resigned today. President Miklas immediately commissioned Schuschnigg to form a new government. No reason was given for the resignations.

Large squads of police armed with bayonets and machine guns occupied important public buildings throughout Vienna at dusk.

Among the places heavily guarded was the government radio station, where so-called emergency police, who normally remain in their barracks subject to call, were on duty.

Armed with rifles and machine guns, the military appearing police marched into important public buildings throughout the city. It was the first intimation to the general public that a political move was on foot.

U. S. FUND FOR WATER STILL AVAILABLE

$6,574,000 County Grant Remains Ear-Marked Until December

MUST BE MATCHED

Opinion On Possibility of Second Bond Vote Will Be Sought

The people of Orange county still have a chance to take advantage of a $6,574,000 federal grant to aid them in putting over a flood control and water conservation program. Despite the fact that other portions of the state are clamoring for this money, it has been earmarked for Orange county until December.

Hamilton H. Cotton of San Clemente, prominent Democrat, said today he had been informed by Frank Y. McLaughlin, Works Progress administration head for California, that the money is being held.

The Journal today received a telegram from the Works Progress administration headquarters at San Francisco which said that the federal grant district must match the federal grant with more than $3,000,000 before the work can start. The wire said that the WPA would supervise the work, and indicated that technical assistance would be rendered at dam sites by army engineers.

Will Seek Opinion
W. H. Spurgeon, chairman of the citizens' flood control committee, said today that while there may be some other plan available, he has no knowledge of any way in which the county could match the federal grant except by means of a bond issue.

Whether there is any way in which another bond issue could be called within six months is a legal question which would have to be answered before any steps were taken, Mr. Spurgeon said.

He said he will request the district attorney's office for an opinion on this point. It has been understood that the law provided that six months must elapse before another election. Mr. Spurgeon said he assumed that the citizens might wish to ask the board of supervisors to call an election if it is legally possible.

County Must Watch It
On Oct. 7 a meeting of about 25 county leaders interested in the water question agreed that if there was any possibility of the grant being retained, steps should be taken to put the water program over if the way is legally clear.

Mr. Cotton said today that earmarking of the grant means that the program can go ahead if Orange county matches it. A story from Washington, published in Los Angeles, said that Mr. McLaughlin had been authorized to initiate the program, but this is predicated upon Orange county putting up its share of the money, said Mr. Cotton.

The story from Washington said (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

$400,000 Fire Razes Famed Hotel Tacoma

TACOMA, Oct. 17. (AP)—The historic Hotel Tacoma, one of the most famous hostilities on the Pacific coast, was destroyed by fire this morning.

At least four persons were overcome by smoke. Mrs. Edith Owens a guest at the hotel, was carried from the building in an unconscious condition and taken to a hospital.

The loss was estimated at about $400,000, covering the building and furnishings, fully insured. The hotel, built in the eighties, was designed by Stanford White, who later was killed by Harry K. Thaw.

DEATH TAKES O'CONNOR

Ex-Chief of Shipping Board 'Father' of Merchant Marine

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 17. (AP)—T. V. O'Connor, 65, former chairman of the United States shipping board, died at his home here this afternoon. He suffered a stroke Tuesday.

Mr. O'Connor, as chairman of the shipping board, helped foster the new American merchant marine built up after the World war.

First appointed to the board by President Harding in 1921, when he was international president of the longshoremen's union, Mr. O'Connor was its chairman from 1924 to March, 1933. During these years the vast fleet built up by the United States during the World war was gradually turned into the hands of private companies.

President Roosevelt did not reappoint him and he retired after bitter senate attacks on his record. He was accused of favoritism, waste and extravagance in handling a $30,000,000 federal ship subsidy and of irregularities in the sale of government owned ships to private operators. Senators also charged members of the board during this period had accepted favors from ship operators.

The charges led to a long drawn out investigation by a special senate committee. Mr. O'Connor insisted throughout that he had not condoned waste, that there were no irregularities, and that the companies which received subsidies deserved them.

FUNDS SYSTEM CALLED 'WEAK'

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Nine major weaknesses, opening the door to juggling of state funds, were cited today in a report of private accountants upon the accounting and auditing systems employed in the state treasury, where a $24,000 shortage recently came to light.

Leon Donihue, Oakland assemblyman and chairman of the house committee appointed to examine the auditing system of the state, after reviewing the report, said that in his opinion both the state treasury and the department of finance were guilty of failing to exercise their constituted duties.

NORWALK P. O. CLERK HELD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17. (AP)—Secretly indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of embezzling postal funds, Mrs. Zola Williams, 31, clerk in the Norwalk postoffice, surrendered today to federal authorities. She was admitted to $2500 bonds.

COUNTY FEELS EFFECTS OF DRY WINDS

Damage to Crops Thus Far Is Reported as Only Slight

FIRE RAZES 2 BARN

$7000 Loss in Orange and Buena Park by Blazes Is Told

Hang on to your hats and keep doors and windows closed. That's the advice offered by old-timers of the county, who have predicted another two days of dry, hot winds, the first "Santa Ana" wind of the season. The blows usually last for three days, and are sometimes followed by rain, they report. With the wind today came a noticeable increase in temperature.

Very little damage directly attributable to the wind was reported over the county today, although two fires were fanned into more serious blazes than they would ordinarily have been, according to State Forester Joe Scherman who blamed the wind for about $7000 damage to property in Buena Park and Orange.

Damage Negligible
County officials reported that wind is not nearly so severe as in past years. Harold Wahlberg, county farm advisor, said that crops have not suffered as yet from the dry, hot wind, and if there is no increase in intensity, damage will be negligible.

Some citrus fruit has been knocked to the ground, but will be drying out of ground, and possible damage to newly-planted cover crops, he said. Walnut growers will be benefited by the "Santa Ana," as the heavy wind will knock walnuts from the tops of the trees, saving some labor in the harvest, he added.

Edison company officials reported no damage in the area, although lights in some parts of the county flickered when wires were brushed by limbs from trees. The Ontario district, however, is suffering from one of the worst wind storms in years today, they reported.

Two Fires
No damage was reported to crops or dairies in north Orange county.

A barn containing 10 tons of hay valued at $100, property of Walter Knott of Buena Park, burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. A spray rig and automobile valued at $400 were also lost in the blaze. The property was not covered by insurance.

At 5:10 a. m. today state foresters were called to fight fire in a barn belonging to John Adams, near the northwest city limits of Orange. Firemen from Orange and the state department were unable to save the structure. Approximately $1000 worth of walnuts were lost in the blaze, as were a spray rig and other farming equipment. Damage, which was estimated at $5000, was partially covered by insurance.

EX-SECY. FALL IN HOSPITAL

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 17. (AP)—A. B. Fall, former secretary of the interior who recently was disturbed by efforts to dispossess him of his Tres Ritos ranch in New Mexico, was ill today in an El Paso hospital.

He was brought here yesterday from the ranch, suffering a breakdown. His condition does not appear critical.

HOLIDAY PLAN WORKED OUT

Novel Decoration for Christmas Event Is Being Arranged

Directors of the retail division of the chamber of commerce today visioned the biggest and best Christmas program for Santa Ana stores that has been staged since 1929. It is hoped that the event will be a real community affair, emphasizing the Christmas spirit for all.

Meeting at the chamber of commerce building today, the directors authorized a sub-committee to work out a decorative program for the downtown streets which they hope will be the most novel one ever presented. Uniform decoration of store windows, something that has never been done before, will be one of the features of the project.

The merchants, it is anticipated, will spend more money than ever before to make the Christmas holidays festival a big success. This year local organizations outside the business district will be invited to co-operate in making the festival a real community celebration, said J. H. Bell, chairman of the retail division.

One of the plans under way provides for broadcast of music along the streets and also for broadcasting in the county as a whole, over KREG. Details of this phase of the affair are being worked out. Local singing organizations will be invited to participate.

FOX, ILL, IS NOT UNDER ARREST

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—David G. Berger, counsel to the congressional committee investigating pooling of patents and cross licensing, said today he has been informed William Fox, the motion picture producer, is undergoing treatment in a hospital in Ontario, Canada. Fox has been sought for testimony before the committee.

Berger yesterday announced that Fox had been taken into custody at Atlantic City. He said that information was telephoned to him by a man who said he was a United States commissioner. Ben Reas, Fox's counsel, called Berger today to report the producer's whereabouts.

NEW ATTACKS FEARED IN SONORA

Residents Crossing Line Into Arizona; Mounted Guards on Patrol

NINE PERSONS KILLED

Ammunition Is Smuggled From Tucson; Raids Expected Hourly

NOGALES, SONORA, Mex., Oct. 17. (AP)—Residents of one Sonora border town were reported fleeing into Arizona today as fear of impending rebel attacks continued unabated along the American border across which ammunition has assertedly been smuggled from Tucson.

Mounted guards patrolled the city of Agua Prieta where Commandante Luis Margallan said he had every reason to expect an attack shortly by the roving band of heavily armed rebels.

Reports that seven Mexican customs border patrolmen had been slain in a clash with rebels a few miles east of Agua Prieta on the Naco road could not be confirmed.

Flee Into Arizona
Border officials at Naco reported that numerous terrified residents fled into Arizona when they heard rumors that city, scene of bloody fighting in the 1929 revolution, would be attacked.

Authoritative sources here declared a munition had been smuggled into Sonora from Tucson, Ariz., through the port of Sasabe. United States border patrol officials said they could not confirm this report. They pointed out many such rumors had been checked without result during the last three days.

Nine Persons Killed
At least nine persons, most of them municipal officials, have been killed by raiders in the last 10 days. Unconfirmed reports boosted the number above this figure.

With the rebel forces, headed by General Ibarra, reportedly concentrated in the Altar district of Northwestern Sonora, officials here at Agua Prieta and Naco took extra precautions against a surprise attack.

The raiders, reportedly disgruntled agriculturists, seek removal of Gov. Ramon Ramos, modification of government's agrarian and church policies. (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Emperor Advises Forces to Use Guerilla War Methods at Front

By JAMES A. MILLS

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 17.—The Ethiopian government issued an official communique today stating it was informed there were "grave differences of opinion" between Premier Mussolini and Gen. Emilio de Bono, his commander in Ethiopia, leading the latter to offer his resignation.

The official communique was issued shortly after Emperor Haile Selassie informed the Associated Press: "I will not discuss peace while a single Italian soldier remains on my soil."

At the same time, government officials stated that Ethiopians who have escaped from Tigre province, which has been occupied by de Bono's forces, said that Ethiopian men, women and even children were being compelled by their conquerors to work like slaves on road construction.

Reviewing his forces Emperor Selassie counseled his warriors to "employ guerrilla tactics." The Negus said:

"You must never remain massed. Employ guerrilla tactics and be patient. Disperse whenever you see an enemy plane. Discard white clothes for khaki in order to avoid being an easy target for the Italians."

Natives Enthusiastic
Seated on his throne, with Ras Mulugeta, minister of war, nearby, Selassie watched 50,000 native warriors march and ride past—some of them whipping themselves into a frenzy of barbaric enthusiasm.

The imperial guards were forced to belabor them with staves to drive them away from the throne. The communique stated:

"Informed persons say grave differences of opinion exist between Mussolini and his general staff in Eritrea. Mussolini is most displeased with the stagnation of military operations around Adwa, seriously affecting the prestige of the Eritrean army."

"The king of Italy is reported to have intervened in order to terminate the dispute."

Italians Morale Lowered
"Mussolini, it was asserted, remonstrated violently with General de Bono, even threatening to remove him, whereupon the general is reported to have resigned, saying that owing to topographical difficulties, and the determined resistance of the Ethiopians the morale of the Italians had been lowered and he would not assume the responsibility of launching an adventure leading to disaster."

Ethiopians from Tigre province reported that all their animals have been seized by the Italian army and a famine is considered inevitable.

Ethiopians in the capital commented indignantly: "So that is the way Mussolini expects to win (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

LAVAL REFUSES TO SUPPORT ENGLISH IF ITALIANS ATTACK FLEET

CRISIS LIKELY BETWEEN 2 NATIONS

Premier Is Expected to Give Definite Answer to Plea Monday

PARIS, Oct. 17. (AP)—Premier Laval, said reliable sources today, has refused to promise French aid to the British fleet if the latter is attacked by Italy before the League of Nations orders naval enforcement of its sanctions against Italy. Laval has definitely promised an answer by Monday.

On the other hand French officials declined to comment on a report that the premier told Ambassador Sir George Russell Clerk of Great Britain that the presence of warships in the Mediterranean was considered unnecessary for the application of sanctions and that therefore France must decline to assume any immediate responsibility under the league covenant in case of conflict.

The specific question asked by the British ambassador last Monday was whether, in acting together under the league covenant, the French fleet could be relied upon to cooperate with the British in the event of any attack on the British fleet by Italy.

Sir George explained that this support was explicitly provided for under paragraph three of article XVI of the covenant by which the members of the league agree to the mutual support of one another in resisting any specific measures aimed at one of them by a covenant breaking state.

If the British and Italian fleets clash under present circumstances, said a report attributed to "authorized circles," France would refuse to consider it automatically a case of Italian aggression but, rather, a new incident requiring the league's determination of the aggressor.

This response was regarded by the French press as leaving a critical divergence between the French and the British positions.

However, officials attempted to minimize the crisis saying: "The governments are on excellent terms."

The situation was described as "dark," nevertheless, in official circles as the result of Great Britain's "stiffness" and Mussolini's failure to offer a compromise proposal.

Premier Laval's unwillingness to "follow Great Britain blindly" was attributed to French fears that the British would try a blockade which would lead to war.

ITALY WILL KEEP OUT OF PEACE MOVES

ROME, Oct. 17. (AP)—Italy today watched the peace efforts of Premier Laval of France, resolved to keep out of whatever negotiations there may be.

"We cannot talk under British pressure," a government spokesman explained. "Britain has a dagger at our throat with her fleet in the Mediterranean and her sponsorship of sanctions at Geneva."

Military progress in East Africa is slow, it was officially explained, because the Italians are advancing cautiously.

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists state Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

DOWLING, N.Y., Oct. 17. (AP)—Denial that a group of American hunters, which included J. H. Durrell, vice president of the National bank of New York, had been molested by bandits in Sonora, was made here today by Jack Francis, mining engineer.

"I keep my car and my horses at the ranch where the hunters were staying," said Francis. "I was there last Sunday, several days after the day reports said bandits took the hunters' guns and ammunition, and everybody was happy and enjoying a fine hunting trip."

MORE ABOUT WATER GRANT
(Continued from Page 1) that units of the program may be undertaken as conditions permit and make advisable. This has been interpreted as meaning that part of the program might be constructed with the aid of federal money, but Mr. Cotton said Orange county would still have to put up its share.

The Washington story also said that the grant shall not be available for work on any unit until the necessary lands have been acquired by or on behalf of the state.

None Yet Proposed
So far, since defeat of the proposed $6,620,000 bond issue Oct. 4, which was designed to match the grant, no other water program has been proposed.

Chairman John Mitchell of the board of supervisors said last night that no official steps have been taken for calling another bond election. He expressed pleasure that the grant has been preserved until December, and that this would give the people a chance to think the situation over.

An Associated Press story from Washington said today that the comptroller general had countersigned treasury warrants for a $6,574,000 flood control and water conservation project in Orange county. The government money was distributed as follows: Prado dam in the Santa Ana canyon, $3,398,058; Santiago dam, $412,610; San Juan dam, $861,939; Carbon canyon dam, $496,060; Brea canyon dam, $467,636; Fullerton dam, $52,667; Trabuco dam, $556,890; and Aliso dam, $100,650. Water spreading works on the Santa Ana river were listed at $227,500.

COUNTY BEET UNIT SHAPED BY GROWERS

Orange county beet growers organized a temporary beet growers' department in the farm bureau Tuesday night at a meeting in the farm bureau offices here.

One of the purposes of the organization, as will be set forth in a letter to beet growers, is to represent growers in establishing sugar policies within the farm bureau and in dealing with contracts and other policies with sugar factories.

C. H. Heil of Smeltzer was elected temporary chairman of the department. The department will request recognition from the farm bureau at a meeting on Nov. 7.

Mr. Heil and Roland D. Flaherty, farm bureau secretary, were authorized to send the letter to beet growers. "In this letter," said a statement issued at the meeting, "the growers will be asked to cooperate by refraining from signing 1936 growing contracts until negotiations can be officially made with the factory representatives looking toward securing a more equitable contract for the growers."

Growers for many years have operated under contracts based upon average returns from sales of sugar, it was explained by Mr. Flaherty today. Under the new Agricultural Adjustment act sugar has been placed on a quota, conditions have changed and the growers feel that they will not get the same benefits they used to get, said Mr. Flaherty.

Temporary directors, who will serve until Jan. 1, are Ernest Lagier, Newton J. Penman, Thomas Patterson, Wilton Abplanalp, William McOmie, Henry Gattgens, Fred Pope, Lester Barry, George Bushard, Walter Pollard, Frank L. Crowley, Ernest Bryant, Jr., C. R. Browning, Vernon Heil and Stephen Grist.

BOY, 15, STEALS CARS FOR 'FUN'; FACES THEFT COUNT

Because he stole cars "just for the fun of it," a 15-year-old Orange youth was bound over to the juvenile court yesterday on charges of grand theft, following his arrest by Motor Patrolman W. J. Winslow of the Orange police force.

Officer Winslow arrested the boy after a chase through shrubbery and flowers near the Baptist church at Orange and Olive streets in Orange. The lad was found hiding under a bush.

The young robber had just abandoned a car belonging to P. Baldavia, and stolen from in front of the Consolidated Orange Growers packing house. He has assertedly confessed to stealing five other cars during the past 30 days, all of which were later abandoned and recovered by Orange police.

CHEST CONTINUES DRIVE FOR QUOTA OF $32,225

W. K. Hillyard, chairman of the Community Chest board of directors, said today that the organization will continue its effort to reach the $32,225 quota set for this year. The decision to go on working was reached at a meeting of the Chest board.

The amount raised so far is nearly $27,000, he said. Prospects not yet contacted will be reached, and after a complete report is in, plans for the future will be made.

A number of persons in the advance gifts division have said they would increase their pledges if necessary, said Mr. Hillyard.

AAA benefit payments to North Carolina farmers in 1934 amounted to twice as much as taxes on farm property. Benefit payments totaled $12,919,933 and farm property taxes came to $6,684,000.

and following adoption of the budget and establishment of the county rate of 69 cents inside, and 73 cents outside, estimates ranging from 13 per cent to 41 per cent added burden were broadcast.

In his report Mr. Riley indicated that Orange county was next to the lowest county in the state in the amount of increased burden placed upon shoulders of the common property owners. There were 16 counties in the state where the burden was increased. Del Norte county was at the bottom of the list with an increase of 4.60 per cent. Yuba county topped the list with 42.79 per cent boost.

FEAR REVOLT ON LEAGUE SANCTIONS

GENEVA, Oct. 17. (AP)—The suggestion of a League of Nations bank to help nations establish a financial and economic boycott against Italy, was heard today by the league's "mutual aid" committee.

This proposal was made by Demetrios Maximos of Greece after the sanctions committee, chilled by the possibility of parliamentary revolts against sanctions, adjourned without a decision.

League Warned
The league experts who seek to punish Italy for its attack on Ethiopia by instituting a "buy-nothing-from-Italy" campaign, were worried by reports that some nations' parliaments would not carry out such measures.

Maximos suggested that a league bank could float loans and make credit available to states hard hit by an economic boycott against Italy, a boycott which in some cases would ruin their trade.

Nicolas Titulescu, Rumania, suggested that before economic sanctions actually were put into effect, a country for the sale of products which she was unable to place in Italy, should be found.

British Proposal
The British proposed the establishment of a permanent committee to watch the situation and deal with difficulties as they might arise.

A drafting committee will bring in definite mutual aid proposals for the approval of the plenary committee tomorrow.

Walther Stucki, the spokesman for the Swiss delegation pointed out to the committee that the government will have to face the Swiss parliament before the end of the year and be prepared to justify any commitments made to the league.

He said that if Switzerland joins the "buy nothing" campaign and Italy retaliates by buying nothing from Switzerland, the Swiss working classes may suffer severely and unemployment may increase.

APPROVAL OF 4 WPA JOBS ANNOUNCED

Four new projects of the Works Progress administration, including Santa Ana's portion of the Santiago parkway, have been approved and are ready to start. Dan Mulherron, head of the WPA here, said today the money for the projects has been allocated.

The four projects will have a total cost of $11,574.60 and will employ 196 men, he said.

The Santa Ana parkway project will link up with the county's park project on the Santiago creek, which already has been approved. The Santa Ana portion will require a federal outlay of $27,645, while the city's share will be $19,198.25.

Reserve city streets at Orange and resetting traffic markers will employ six men, at a cost of $2244 for the WPA and $857.35 for the city.

Newport Heights Irrigation district project for reinforcing water mains will employ 53 men. The WPA cost will be $14,166, and the district's cost, $3755.

A La Habra storm water protection project will employ 27 men. The WPA cost will be $2579, and the sponsor's cost, $1130.

URGES U. S. TAX FOR WHISKY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 17. (AP)—A recommendation that states license liquor dealers and leave taxing of whisky to the federal government, was made before the National Tax association convention here today by Dr. James W. Martin, director of business research of the University of Kentucky.

Dr. Martin suggested the federal government should collect all liquor taxes and distribute to states their just share. Only then will conflicting problems over liquor taxation be solved, he contended.

MORE ABOUT CRUICKSHANK

Cruikshank evidently became confused, turned north instead of south, and followed the Lassen park boundary line until he struck the trail up the west side of Brokeoff mountain. Reaching the trail, he probably realized that it would be impossible to return to camp that night and decided to go on to the lookout cabin.

Blizzard During Night

While there was more than a foot of snow on the ground when the deer hunt started, Mr. Forgy said that Sunday was clear and the moon shone brightly until 10 o'clock at night, at which time rain started to fall. By 2 a. m. Monday the rain had turned into a driving snowstorm.

When the party started from the McGowan lake camp Sunday morning, according to Mr. Forgy, it was decided that they should spread out and meet at a point known as Rimrock, at the head of Digger creek. Mr. Cruickshank who was mounted, tied his horse and started to walk through the brush in an attempt to pick up the trail of a deer. At noon he met Mr. Forgy and, after a rest, left to rejoin the other members of the party around a nearby point at the Rimrock rendezvous. Mr. Forgy followed another trail and reached the party.

When the banker failed to join the party it was suggested that he had turned back to the point where the horse was tied, and Mr. Forgy went back to meet him there. After waiting for more than two hours, Mr. Forgy said, he realized that the banker was lost and got in touch with the rest of the party and a search was started.

Enlisted Rangers Aid
When no trace of the missing man had been found at 10 o'clock Sunday night, the party started for Mineral and enlisted the aid of forest rangers under Ranger Eugene Barton and other expert mountaineers, and guides of the district headed by "Husky" Beresford of Mineral.

Through the blinding snow of Monday the parties searched, with one group heading for a group of cabins on the west side of Brokeoff mountain where hunters and campers make their headquarters. These cabins are kept stocked with food and fuel, and it was hoped that by some accident the banker had reached one of the shelters. Other searching parties worked their way through the woods, fearing that Mr. Cruickshank had been injured and forced to remain out in the blizzard over night.

Forgy Returns Home
With all parties reporting failure Monday night, the trip to Brokeoff mountain was decided upon for Tuesday. Mr. Forgy had to leave the group Tuesday to bring Lieut. E. Anderson, of the navy, back to San Pedro where he was scheduled to rejoin his ship. He was accompanied by his father, H. J. Forgy.

Mr. Forgy said that the plan was for A. J. McFadden, Mr. Beresford and a man known as "Tex," who is an expert skier, to make the trip to the lookout cabin on Brokeoff. Mr. McFadden and Beresford were to go as far as possible and wait while "Tex" completed the trip up the mountain on skis.

In a telephone conversation with a Journal reporter last night, Mr. McFadden said that Mr. Cruickshank's tracks had been picked up outside the door of the lookout cabin and the party trailed him down the mountain and back to McGowan lake, where they found the banker had arrived 10 minutes ahead of the search party.

In Best of Health
Aside from being extremely tired from his long trip down the mountain through snow, that had piled up to depths of two and three feet, Mr. Cruickshank was in the best of health. He told members of the party that when he reached the cabin he found food and fuel and decided to remain there until the storm, which started within a few hours after his arrival, had abated. After resting for a while at McGowan camp, the party made the trip to Mineral and communicated with members of Mr. Cruickshank's family, and remained there for the night.

In his conversation with The Journal last night, Mr. McFadden said that too much praise could not be given the forest rangers, park rangers and guides of the district for the assistance they had given in the search. Without them, he said, it would have been impossible for members of the hunting party to have made the search.

Among Ethiopia's plentiful birds are eagles, vultures, hawks, buzzards, partridges, duck, teal, guinea fowl, sand-grouse, curlews, woodcock, snipe, pigeons, thrushes and swallows.

CRASH INJURES SANTA ANAN

Orville A. Ralph, route 4, box 553, Santa Ana, was rushed to the Orange county hospital at 6:20 a. m. Wednesday with a fractured left leg and fractured hip following an automobile accident at West First and Bristol streets. According to a report filed in the Santa Ana police department, Mr. Ralph was traveling east on First street when he hit the dip at the intersection and lost control of his light truck.

The machine jumped the curb and crashed into a Southern California company pole. A high tension wire was broken, and Edison company men were called to repair the damage.

FAKE COLLECTOR IN COUNTY, IS WARNING

A warning was broadcast to various police departments in Orange county today asking that officers be on the lookout for a man who is assertedly representing himself as a collector of fees for the enforcement of the state barbers code. His method of operation is to enter a barber shop and display a list of names, each with 50 cents marked after it. When he collects the sum, he crosses off the name.

Herman Zabel, head of the bureau of identification at the sheriff's office, said today that if the man is arrested he will be charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. He said there is no person with authority to collect such fees.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

YESTERDAY we visited in Anaheim.

Mostly we saw Rudy Boysen, and talked about berries.

Mr. Boysen is park superintendent for the city. Right now he's one of the many residents growing whisks for the contest there on Halloween.

But we weren't interested in whisks, however, so we talked, briefly, about berries, and his experience with 'em.

IT SEEMS that there's a new berry sensation on the market. It's called the Boysenberry. Yes, it's named after the Anaheim man. According to what we read, the new berry has taken the market by storm. It's bigger and better than the Youngberry and threatens to replace all other varieties in production.

Here's what we learned: Back in 1923 or 1924, Mr. Boysen, then a farmer in the Napa valley, started experimenting with berries. In his work he put pollen from Loganberries and raspberries on blackberry flowers. From those seeds he took a large number of seedling bushes and reserved the most likely plant.

He didn't bother much about the plant, and when he moved to Anaheim some time later he brought some of the bushes with him. Later, he sent a few to D. W. Coolidge in Pasadena, who immediately saw the potential value of the plant and wrote to agriculturalists in Washington. After some time George W. Darrow, government specialist, came to see Mr. Coolidge about the berries, but the Pasadena man had passed away.

So the expert hunted up Walter Knott, Buena Park man of berry fame, told his story and Mr. Knott started on a search for Mr. Boysen which finally ended when he found him acting as park superintendent.

The Buena Park expert planted some of the bushes, and soon had an astounding crop—berries twice as large as the popular Youngberries and just as sweet. So he went to Mr. Boysen's orange grove and obtained all of the plants that he could find, and started propagation. He obtained 100 plants, we hear, and from these he sold 2200 boxes of berries in 1934. Sold for $176, which is about double the price which would have been received from Youngberries. Last year he had sold enough to other dealers so that about 100 acres were planted last season.

WE'VE wandered a long way from Rudy Boysen, who first discovered the berry.

When asked what he got out of the discovery, he said "Advertisement."

He explained that the patent law which covers such things didn't go into force until 1933, and that it was too late to do him any good, so now they're everybody's berries. But anyway, he still has the parent plant at his home.

Must be a funny feeling, when he wants a berry pie for supper, to have to pay for a box of the berries that he discovered!

CAN'T keep away from the whisks in Anaheim.

George Reid, C. of C. secretary, tells us that Ernest Dubois has the most luxuriant growth, closely followed by Voss Harrington. We haven't seen either of the leaders in the contest—but our pick is now Police Sergeant Jim Pifer, whose arrangement of sideburns, beard and mustache is a work of art. We switched from Abe Cone as a sure winner when he weakened—or rather, itched—and shaved off his prize-winning crop.

Chief of Police Jim Bouldin isn't doing so well with his array. In the first place, all he's attempting is sideburns and the rest is sandy and vague looking. He's in the same fix as Cap Andrade, whose whisks are white and therefore don't show up very well. They just make Cap look pale.

NEARLY all Orange county should be at the Fullerton Kiwanis club's annual scholarship fund presentation tonight in the high school auditorium.

If for no other reason, thousands are expected to attend to see Louis Plummer, dignified high school principal, in an act called "Major Bones Amateurs."

PLANS MADE FOR HALLOWE'EN CELEBRATION AT ANAHEIM

PARADE AND DANCE ARE FEATURES

Residents Enter Whisks Contest; Vaudeville Acts Scheduled

ANAHEIM.—Plans for a two-day Halloween celebration, to be held Oct. 30 and 31, were made at a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce here yesterday.

Members are planning by far the largest celebration ever presented in the 11-year history of the event, according to George Reid, chamber secretary. Thousands of north Orange county residents attend the affair each year, and the crowd at this season's program is expected to eclipse all others, it was reported.

The main attraction of the celebration will be the annual parade on Halloween, according to plans made yesterday. At least six divisions will be seen, with each division headed by a band. Last year's parade was remarkable for the number of horses and riders appearing, but an even larger representation is expected this year. Three hundred riders will be invited to participate, it has been decided.

Six acts of vaudeville will be presented, free of charge, following the parade in the city park theater and a street dance will be held, probably on Center street in the first block west of Los Angeles street.

Many prizes for entrants in the parade are planned by the committee in charge, which includes Ed Keith, chairman, and Mel Gauer, Joe Claves, Ray Smith, Lotus Lorton, Roy Mendoza, Charles Pearson, L. C. Vincent, Victor Loly, Fred Robbins, Floyd Snyder, Bill Payne, K. B. Rigby and Robert Easton.

Residents of the community are now in the midst of a whisker-growing contest, and the committee in charge of the celebration will also offer prizes for the most luxuriant beards. It has been announced. Planned for the day preceding Halloween is a "kangaroo court" and many other amusing features, it was decided yesterday.

Men of the community who are unable or do not wish to grow whisks may buy immunity through purchase of "exemption" buttons, with such funds to aid in paying expenses of the celebration.

Merchants also plan to present a strolling German band, and the possibility of obtaining two navy football teams to appear was also discussed yesterday.

NEW PRODUCER IN H. B. FIELD

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—One new well was placed on production in the Huntington Beach field this week, and an old producer that was re-drilled was put on the pump.

The new well was drilled by the Elliott Oil company on Huntington avenue near Yorktown. The well is reported pumping about 100 barrels per day, and after it is pumped clean may be a better producer, it was reported.

The well is the first new well drilled on the east side for a number of years.

On the west side of the city, in the town-lot area, the Thomas Oil company has put their well on production. It was an old pump but was re-drilled and brought back to the shallow zone at 3500 feet.

RELIEF CORPS AT MIDWAY CITY HAS MEETING

MIDWAY CITY.—The Woman's Relief Corps of the Westminster district met at the Woman's clubhouse recently. A social evening will be held at the Arnett home on Oct. 28, when the birthday anniversaries of the president, Mrs. Gladys Carson, and of Miss Irene Luffert will be observed. It was decided.

The Los Amigos club will meet at the home of Mrs. P. H. Marshall tomorrow evening, with Mrs. William Schmidt assisting hostess. A dessert course will be served members upon arrival and will be followed by an evening of bridge.

COSTA MESA CLUB PLANS SURPRISE

COSTA MESA.—Plans are being made by the club women here to entertain their better halves in a big way on Friday evening for it is to be "husbands' night" at the Costa Mesa Friday Afternoon club.

An excellent exchange dinner at 6:30 will get the men folks into a receptive mood, according to the president, Mrs. James O. Tallman and then a surprise program will be sprung by Mrs. Ruth Frbe, chairman of arrangements.

Several hundred persons are expected to attend this gala annual occasion as entire families gather for the fun.

'Bailed Out' for Safe Landing

Forced to take his parachute when the landing gear of his pursuit plane was damaged in the takeoff of a formation flight at March Field, Calif., Lieut. William A. Hatcher, of Detroit, Mich., floated safely to earth after two hours' maneuvering between Calico and Riverside. The above photo was made eight minutes before Lieut. Hatcher jumped from the plane and shows the landing gear hanging three and a half feet below the ship. Lower photo shows Hatcher floating to safety as his plane burned to a crisp on a dry lake. LEGION PLANS GROVE CHURCH PARADE ENTRY GROUP MEETS

NEWPORT BEACH.—The Newport harbor American Legion post will enter a float in the Armistice day parade at Anaheim this year, it was decided at a meeting of the Legion last Tuesday evening. The float will be designed as a "Coast Patrol" to represent the new organization being formed with headquarters at Newport harbor. Robert Boyd is chairman in charge of planning and building the float.

All junior organizations in the city are requested to march in the parade, according to J. D. Watkins, chairman of publicity. Commander Lieberman of the Twenty-first district, visited the post and was speaker of the evening. Commander Al Dykman presided.

BEACH LEGION PLANS DRIVE

SEAL BEACH.—Members of the American Legion started a membership contest yesterday which will close on Armistice day. A turkey dinner is in store for the winning side, as it was voted that losers should entertain the winning side.

One-half of the present membership will be captured by First Vice Commander Ray Moffitt and the other 30 members will be led by Capt. Sam Carpenter, second vice commander.

FIRE STATION NOT INCLUDED IN ANAHEIM PLANS

ANAHEIM.—Although the city of Anaheim will seek federal funds for several small projects, no attempt will be made at this time to build a new fire hall, members of the city council have announced. Architects have prepared a sketch of a proposed firehall so that the council may be ready to consider plans if funds are available at some future time, it was announced. Projects for which funds are sought include grading and storm drain work, tree surgery, school crossing guards, curb and culvert repairs and street work.

"U" TURNS BANNED AT THREE ORANGE INTERSECTIONS

ORANGE.—No more "U" turns will be allowed at three Orange intersections when an ordinance which received its first reading last night before the city council becomes a law.

The intersections are Maple and Glassell streets, Chapman and Orange streets and Chapman and Olive streets. The police department determined that these corners were most hazardous for motorists after a survey.

FIREMAN USES GAS MASK TO FIGHT ORANGE BLAZE

ORANGE.—Oil, used in processing rope at the Western Cordage company, boiled over and ignited from the burner beneath it at 12:30 p. m., yesterday, causing a $25 loss. Mel Clement, Orange fireman, was forced to use a gas mask before the burner could be turned off and the fire extinguished, according to Fire Chief Al L. Tomblin.

P.T. A. DINNER IS PLANNED

BOLSA.—Members of the Bolsa Parent-Teacher association are planning a pot-luck supper at the school tomorrow evening. Mrs. Cadawallader is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

S. W. Fuller and mother, Mrs. Jessie Fuller, are spending several days in San Diego county.

Mrs. I. D. Wallingford, who has been a patient in St. Joseph's hospital for the past week, has returned to her home.

Geo. L. Rainey is recovering from injuries he suffered recently when his foot was badly mangled. Katherine Kurtz of Fullerton is a guest of her aunt, Mrs. E. W. Hoke.

Bob Richardson has just completed installing a new water system and erection of a 2,000-gallon water tank.

PLAN PLAY AT GARDEN GROVE

GARDEN GROVE.—For the first time in six years, the Junior class of the high school will present a play this year, having selected "Growing Pains," a three-act comedy, to be presented Nov. 27. Mrs. Eleanor Casady is in charge of the production.

Chosen for the leading parts in the cast were Ruth Leslie Mitchell, who will play the part of "Terry McIntyre" and Jim Lewis, who will play "George McIntyre."

Supporting members of the cast are Helen Meyer, Ben Kolb, Ruth Rice, Eleanor Luz, Dick Mitchell, Frank Rossetto, Dot Graves, Don Wakeham, Lloyd McMillan, Ray Ross, Harry Hoskins, Lois Weber, Betty Wentz, Margaret Schauer, Margie Brown and Elizabeth Green.

BEACH WOMEN PLAN SHOW

SEAL BEACH.—One of the largest flower shows ever attempted by the Seal Beach Woman's club will be held in the city auditorium tomorrow. Many displays of cut flowers grown by the club members, and many varieties of potted plants will be on display.

The show will open at 2 p. m. for the afternoon and again at 7 p. m., according to Mrs. Walker Snyder, general chairman, who will be assisted by a large committee of clubwomen.

A program will be featured in the evening, it was announced by the president of the club, Mrs. Anne Collier. A silver offering will be taken.

Then out of a stormy sky H. G. Heister appeared, nattily attired in a gray check suit and wearing high good spirits in spite of it all. He got off a rattling good story, and when he reached the climax it started to rain and everyone dispersed.

That is, everyone except the chief. He had to sit in his car where he could see the red light in case it should flash a "call up the operator" signal from over the top of Hotel Laguna's big sign.

Plenty of activity going on over at the court room the other day. Through a cloud of dust Judge C. C. Cravath and Constable E. T. Cresce could faintly be distinguished shifting a partition around to make more room in the court.

One was wielding a broom and the other a hammer, and between the two of them the place was a bedlam. Whether these enlarged quarters indicate the trend of the law business could not be ascertained, but it is somehow significant of Judge's temperament, that when he wants something done he doesn't await the pleasure of WPA's assistance.

Floyd Case's tree-trimmers have been agitating the clippers and shears around the neck and ears of our local shrubbery recently, and cars can pass now without weaving around sagging limbs. Another observation of civic improvement is the increasing number of streets which will buck the winter rains for the first time with a brand new coat of paving.

Hear that the skeleton of the "Municipal Club" is about to blossom forth into a real flesh-and-blood organization.

Maybe lots of political firecrackers will start popping!

G. G. TOWNSEND GROUP PLANS HALLOWE'EN FETE

GARDEN GROVE.—The local Townsend group is planning a Halloween party for the evening of Oct. 28 and invitations will be sent the Westminster and Costa Mesa clubs inviting them to the party. This was decided at the meeting of the local group this week.

Whether a meeting will be held in Garden Grove Oct. 27 in keeping with the meetings to be held simultaneously all over the nation on that date will be decided at next week's meeting of the club. The day marks the closing session of the national convention.

A. J. Kelly presided at the meeting and Mrs. E. Humphrey entertained with a piano solo.

HER DREAM CAME TRUE! LAGUNA RESIDENT GETS BIRD

LAGUNA BEACH.—This is a story about a canary bird called "Townsend," a dream, and Mrs. Bertha Rhodes, of 260 Ocean avenue.

Mrs. Rhodes had the dream, and now she has "Townsend."

It all happened this way: Several weeks ago a Townsend club member donated a canary as a prize for the best guess on the number of beans in a glass jar. In Mrs. Rhodes' dream, she saw the numbers 4, 5 and 6, followed by a 1, which was the number of beans in the jar. Changing the numbers end-for-end, Mrs. Rhodes turned in 1,654 as her guess.

When the beans were counted, they totalled 1,657!

So now Mrs. Rhodes owns "Townsend." At one time she had another canary, which was brought to her from China by Capt. Anderson from Tacoma, Wash., her home before coming to Laguna 20 years ago.

She is a firm believer in dreams. "I got right up and wrote that number down so I wouldn't forget it. That's the only way to do," she said.

And many other Townsend bird-lovers are wishing that they, too, had dreams.

NEWPORT P.T. A. HAS MEETING

NEWPORT BEACH.—A large number of parents and teachers attended the teachers' reception given by the Parent-Teacher association as the first meeting of the year recently. The reception and a brief business meeting were held in the kindergarten of the new $114,000 grammar school building.

Mrs. W. T. Kirven of Garden Grove, president of the fourth district P.T. A., spoke on "What Teachers Expect of Parents."

A membership drive was started with Mrs. Ray Haynes named as chairman. The contest will close Oct. 28. The room receiving the largest per cent of members will be awarded a prize, it was announced by the publicity chairman, Mrs. J. R. McClure.

The organization will hold a rummage sale on Nov. 16, it was decided, and donations may be delivered to Mrs. Leo McGowan at 1613 West Bay avenue or to Mrs. E. H. Needham at 1006 Park avenue, Balboa Island.

H. O. Ensign, principal of the school, introduced members of the faculty. Two new teachers who were added this year because the enrollment has increased to 401 pupils, the largest attendance ever known in the school, are Miss Madeline Clark, head of the music department, and Miss Shirley Haynes, fifth grade.

Others introduced were Mrs. Nettie Bryan, David Cherry, Dorothy Crane, Hazel Cubbon, Bertha A. Clark, Lillian Herminway, Mrs. Eva Hice, Mrs. Marie Heffren, Mrs. Elizabeth Hyde, Orville Northrup, Mrs. Miriam S. Porter, Mabel B. Stanley, Mrs. Nellie G. Wilkinson and Miss Emma Branstien.

TO FETE TEACHERS AT EL MODENA

EL MODENA.—Teachers will be honored guests at a dinner and entertainment in the cafeteria of the Roosevelt school tomorrow evening, sponsored by the El Modena P.T. A. Members will provide the pot-luck dinner.

Miss Ruth Bartlett, teacher of lip reading in Orange county schools, and winner of a lip reading contest at the Century of Progress exposition at Chicago, will speak on "The Hard-of-Hearing Child in the School." Mrs. W. C. Armstrong and Stanley Kurtz will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Kurtz. Dinner will be served at 6:30 and the program starts at 7:45 o'clock.

AWAIT ACTION ON CITY HALL PROJECT

FULLERTON.—Fullerton may still have a new city hall.

That was the word given the city council at a recent meeting by Herman Hiltcher, city engineer, and Albert Launer, city attorney, who have been conferring with WPA and WPA officials in Los Angeles. The local project is viewed with favor by state and local federal authorities, and recommendation from Washington is being awaited, they reported.

LUNCHEON HELD BY ORANGE CORPS

ORANGE.—The Woman's Relief corps met for a potluck luncheon here yesterday with Mesdames Hattie Buhrman, Vaida Foster, Edna McCollum, Della Hoskins and Rebecca Baisers as hostesses.

Comrades Baker and Kane were special guests. The chapter was draped in memory of Mrs. Sue Teasdale, George W. Hall, and John McKibben, who died since the last meeting.

"ARMY" TOGETHER

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17. (AP)—With General Evangeline Booth presiding, 500 Salvation Army officers are expected here for the first American congress of the organization Oct. 23 to 27.

PAVING WORK AT ORANGE TO START

State Will Be in Charge of Project, Engineer Tells Council

ORANGE.—Although city gasoline tax money will be used for paving work scheduled to start soon on Batavia street, the state will furnish equipment and supervise the work, W. K. Hillyard, acting city engineer, told the city council at a meeting here last night.

Mr. Hillyard also announced that work will be resumed Monday on the Batavia storm drain, with the crew concentrating on completion of the culvert under the Santa Fe railway line.

Ed C. Fisher presented a petition asking that street lights be installed on West Collins avenue from Glassell to Batavia street, and north on Batavia street from Walnut to West Collins. The petition was granted and nine lights will be installed, four each on Collins and Batavia, and one on the corner of Collins and Batavia.

A resolution was passed to enter into an agreement with the Edison company for purchase of electric power other than ornamental lights for a period of two years from July 1, 1935, at rates fixed by the railroad commission, with the provision that in event the yearly bill exceeds $6972.72, a discount of 40 per cent will be allowed the city.

COREY SPEAKER AT MEETING

ORANGE.—Arthur Corey, assistant superintendent of Orange county schools, was speaker at a Parent-Teacher association meeting at the Lydia Killifer school yesterday afternoon.

His subject was "The Place of the Home in National Life," and he urged that many social duties supervised by the home in time past be lately taken from the home, he returned. Many problems should have their solution in the home, he said, as they cannot be settled anywhere else.

Second grade pupils under direction of Mrs. Beryl Robinson, gave recitations and songs, with each pupil in the grade taking an individual part. At the close of their program the children were served refreshments by Mrs. Elmer Poage, Mrs. Margaret Ockels and Mrs. Robinson.

Mothers of the second grade were hostesses at the meeting and served apple pie and tea to the parents present. The committee included Mrs. Kenneth McCoy, Mrs. Ted Seay, Mrs. Henry Jost and Mrs. J. Holmwood.

Walter McCracken presided at the business meeting and Mrs. Ted Seay served as program chairman.

MARK SET FOR ENROLLMENT

GARDEN GROVE.—Enrollment in Garden Grove schools at the close of the first month of school this year shows a decided increase over that for the same period last year, school officials said today.

Elementary enrollment increased by 26 pupils, and the high school enrollment by 15, it was reported. Both Superintendent S. R. Fitz of the grammar schools and L. L. Doig, principal of the high school are at a loss to explain the increased enrollment.

At the high school the largest increase is in the sophomore class and this is partially attributed to the fact that some former Huntington Beach High school students are coming to Garden Grove this year for the agricultural course, which the other school does not offer, Principal Doig said.

Total enrollment in the grammar schools for this year is 922 and for a year ago 896. The high school has 357 students this year where last year there were 342.

WOMEN BOLT CLUBS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17. (AP)—Because it objected to birth control legislation endorsed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Catholic Woman's club withdrew from the national organization yesterday.

PATTERN 5456

A handsome afghan is a decorative accessory as well as a practical asset to a household. And here's one in four colors that is very simple to make and can be joined up in a variety of ways to give you an entirely different afghan. A great part of its charm is in the stitch used—some of the small squares are worked out in popcorns. The individual block is small, making it especially good pick-up work. Make it and you will have an afghan that will be admired by all who see it.

In pattern 5456 you will find complete instructions and charts for making the afghan shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Santa Ana Journal Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, Calif.

Erdhaus Moves to Regular End Post; Dons Miss Greschner, Hendrie

Column Left!

By FRANK ROGERS

HOW DO YOU STACK UP WITH 'NERVY NINE'?
DOWN in the corner or some place in this page, unless the printers are mad at us again, is that four-column display of "the nervy nine." Football guessers. Replacing jigsaw puzzle and second not even to picking horse races, grid guessing is the national indoor sport today. Those who draw you in—Paul Wright started ours—won't let you off with simply shutting your eyes and guessing who'll win. Oh, no. You've gotta say by how much. And then if you do pick the right team but the wrong score you find yourself penalized so many points—the difference between your score and the actual one.

We can't talk too much about it because we finished last in the first week—but we were sucked in by the two local upsets and the defeat of Nebraska, a team we still maintain you'll hear plenty about before Thanksgiving day.

If you would like some relief from the daily routine, why don't you grid guess along with us?

WANDERING DOWN ALLEY OF SPORTS

WHO ARE the two best tennis players in the world? Fred Perry and Helen Wills Moody, says A. Wallis Myers, British net expert. Helen Jacobs is only half a notch behind Don Budge, the flaming haired Oakland lad who placed sixth in this computation. Clark Shaughnessy, who is carrying on for A. A. Staggs at University of Chicago, says the four best teams in the country are Ohio State, Illinois, Purdue and Minnesota. And he picks Illinois to lick Ohio State! "Ohio State is going to see one of the fastest and smartest teams that ever handled a football," sezhe.

Boston boxing is in a terrible slump but wrestling is the sport of the hour. Ray Stammers, the British Wightman cup eye, plays lacrosse in the spring and fall to get in shape for tennis. Don Budge and Gene Mako will not play doubles again for U. S. L. T. A. Watch Gene Sarazen in the Professional Golfers association tourney opening at Oklahoma City today. Gene hasn't a title now and needs one badly.

Hail Frank Thomas of Alabama's one-time wonders. "This is part of the game," he grinned after the Tide's loss to Mississippi State and right after the deadlock with little Howard College. "We just haven't got going yet." Wonder what the pre-season smarties who picked Stanford and Alabama to lock horns again after the New Year's day parade are thinking now...

Kim Whitehead, Yale backfield star, underwent a late summer appendectomy and it is not certain he will be able to play in some of Eli's early games this fall.

Three 20-round fights were staged at Butte, Mont., within a three-day period in 1903.

BEARS TO USE SPEED

BERKELEY, (AP)—Planning to match speed against speed, Coach "Stub" Allison today named a light, fast California backfield to start against the Santa Clara Broncos Saturday. The opening gun will find Jack Howard, 165-pounder, at fullback, in place of hard-hitting Ken Cotton. Jack Meek will be at quarter, Dan Fowler at left half and Perry Thomas or Sam Chapman at right half.

FOUR FEATHERWEIGHTS DUEL TONIGHT

DON TACKLES AILING, BUT WILL PLAY

Junior College Aerial Attack Is Weakened by Greschner Loss

Striking twice at the left wing position—thereby weakening considerably Santa Ana's baffling aerial attack—shoulder injuries will bench Bill Greschner and Walt Hendrie for the Dons' all-important football assignment with the polished Citrus Owls here tomorrow night.

Fred Erdhaus, towering prospect who originally came from Iowa, will be promoted to the first-string to "pinch-hit" for the temporarily-lost stars, and the effectiveness of Santa Ana's yard-devouring bombardment through the air probably will depend directly upon his showing.

Will Miss Greschner
Greschner is the stick-fingered lad who caught three of Santa Ana's touchdown passes in over-throwing Riverside, 26-19, and his absence may prove costly. The former Newport Harbor star has been unable to drill this week because of a badly bruised left shoulder. There is a slight possibility that Hendrie, whose injury is not as severe, will see service.

Tackle Clarence Bolton, Santa Ana's great lineman who played through the Riverside fray with an aluminum cast on his broken finger, now is being bothered with an injury to a knee originally hurt in high school. Nelson Rogers, other regular tackle, is complaining of headaches, but probably will be ready against Citrus.

Citrus Is Feared
"If we get by Citrus, it looks as if we may go somewhere," said Coach Bill Cook and Alvin Reboin. They respect and fear Al Claves' scrappy contingent which has dealt nothing but misery to the Dons since '32. Truly the "giant-killer" of the conference, Citrus boasts perhaps its strongest team, built around an El Monte sensation, Quarterback Jim Montgomery. Montgomery is recuperating from injuries which may keep him out of action part-time. Two other Citrus stars—Captain Bondie, 196-pound tackle and guard, and Ellington, 200-pound center—are definitely on the sidelines, Claves said.

FIVE JOUSTS SLATED FOR TOMORROW

Anaheim Champs, Tustin, Garden Grove, Brea, H. B. Play at Home

There will be war—football war—on Orange County Prep league battlefields tomorrow afternoon, as 10 teams open maneuvers which they hope will lead them to the championship now held by Anaheim's conquering Colonists.

Anaheim, tutored by Dick Glover, begins the defense of its title at home against Newport Harbor's Tars at 3 o'clock. Coach Ralph Reed's invaders are billed to lose by a margin from one to four touchdowns.

Laguna at Tustin

A wide-open game, with Big Bill Cole's Tilters doing most of the fancy work, is anticipated at Tustin, where Maurice (Red) Guyer's small but scrappy Laguna eleven goes up against the Farmers at 3 o'clock. Interesting passes should be plentiful, as Tustin has a complicated attack through the air—especially with laterals. Paul Francis and Lewis Tadlock will alternate at quarter and fullback for the Tilters.

John Ward was not supposed to have anything at Garden Grove this season, but the Argonauts have come along surprisingly fast, and now loom as titular threats. They beat Tustin, Laguna Beach and San Juan Capistrano in practice jousts. Tomorrow they combat Clarence Bishop's Valencia eleven at Garden Grove. Valencia is no set-up this year, with a brilliant quarterback by the name of Del Jones.

Orange vs. Oilers

Huntington Beach was tabbed as a real championship threat until Brea white-washed the Oilers, 27-0, in a recent practice engagement. Coach Harry (Cap) Sheue's club is an in-and-out, and there is no telling how the Oilers will fare against Orange's Panthers at Huntington Beach tomorrow. Orange will be without its captain, Quarterback Ray Todd, who reached the age-limit of 20 last week, but Coach Stewart White has another good safety in Bob Baier, who shone in Orange's 19-0 victory over Tustin. Harold Welch and Jim Danielson will be at the halves, Elmer Rice at fullback.

San Juan Capistrano, it appears, will be in for a miserable afternoon at Brea.

The schedule:

Oct. 18—Laguna Beach at Tustin, Valencia at Garden Grove, San Juan Capistrano at Brea, Newport Harbor at Anaheim, Orange at Huntington Beach.
Oct. 25—Tustin at Valencia, San Juan Capistrano at Laguna Beach, Brea at Orange, Garden Grove at Anaheim, Huntington Beach at Newport Harbor, Brea at Anaheim, Valencia at San Juan Capistrano, Laguna Beach at Huntington Beach, Garden Grove at Orange.
Nov. 8—San Juan Capistrano at Tustin, Laguna Beach at Valencia, Brea at Garden Grove, Huntington Beach at Anaheim.
Nov. 15—Tustin at Newport Harbor, Brea at Laguna Beach, Valencia at San Juan Capistrano, Garden Grove at Huntington Beach, Anaheim at Orange.
Nov. 22—Playoff for championship provided there is a percentage tie between the first two teams.

MICKEY THE MAN IN THE IRON MASK

11. Mickey Fulfills Ambition

By BILL KING

Associated Press Sports Writer
SINCE Mickey Cochrane, manager of the world champion Detroit Tigers, became famous, Boston university has dug up enough heroic facts and data concerning his college career to fill a thick volume. But the two football incidents that stand out above all the rest happened in games with Brown and Holy Cross.

When Cochrane's team played at Providence, he saved it from a humiliating shut-out with a 53-yard dropkick from a difficult angle. He was injured early in a game with Holy Cross.

Holy Cross scored quickly, a few moments before Cochrane was knocked cold and taken out. Eight minutes before the game ended he "came to," and when he learned the score stood Holy Cross 7, Boston university 0, he insisted on going back into action.

Boston university downed a punt on its 20-yard line as Cochrane limped back into the game. He insisted on carrying the ball. His first try moved B. U. to mid-field, then he added 20 yards more on two plunges and finally raced around left end for a touchdown.

Then Tied Score

THE furious Holy Cross players flipped the B. U. line to shreds when Cochrane dropped back, but he kicked the extra point. Final score: Holy Cross 7; Boston 7.

Cochrane played basketball and hockey, and boxed as a 155-pounder before he attracted any attention as a college baseball player.

DURING the season of 1923, the Dover, Del. club in the Eastern Shore league lured him away from Saranac. He accepted with the canny proviso that he would become a free-agent at the end of the season. He was eager to return to Boston university in the fall and, in order to retain his amateur standing, he played under the name of King.

While known as King, Cochrane attracted the attention of Tom Turner, a scout for the Portland, Ore. club in the Pacific Coast league. Cleveland, Detroit and several other big league teams learned of Turner's interest in the youth and their scouts looked him over and were impressed.

He Learned From Daley

WHEN Cochrane reported to Portland, he found Tommy Daley, now a big-league coach, holding down the first-string catcher's job. Daley taught Cochrane everything he knew and the season was not very far advanced before Cochrane was in there every day. He hit .338 in 99 games and attracted nationwide attention. Connie Mack, whose Athletics had a tie-up with the Portland club, obtained him for $50,000 cash and five players, worth about $30,000 more. Cochrane was then 21.

When the American league season opened, Cochrane stood out as the major-league find of that year. But he refused to consider himself a big leaguer until the team got to Boston.

Mickey Fulfills Ambition

LET Jimmy Fox describe Cochrane's arrival at the Brunswick.

"The team arrived in time for

FRALEY AND IVAN AGAIN

Pat Fraley, 220-pound Boston rougher and the man who has replaced Ernie (Dirty) Dusek as the roughest and toughest heavyweight in this section, has agreed to face Ivan (The Terrible) Mannagoff, clever Russian, in a three-fall rematch Monday night at the Orange County Athletic club. Fraley won a "fluke" Monday night when he caught Mannagoff in a head scissors.

CORDOZA AND DON BENZOR FIGHT HERE

SAINT UPSET OVER HARES EXPECTED

Santa Anans Confident of Victory at Long Beach Saturday

Coast Preparatory league championship laurels—as far as Santa Ana is concerned—probably will be decided on Burcham field, Long Beach, Saturday afternoon when Bill Foote's challenging Saints go to war with Southern California's defending champions, Orian Landreth's lively Jackrabbits.

Relying on a powerful line and an effective aerial combination, Halfback Carroll Joy to End Erwin Youel, the Saints undoubtedly have the ability to win the 1935 flag. Their greatest threat will be Long Beach, and they catch the king-pins right at the time when their ace quarterback, Mac Beall, is on the sidelines with a back injury.

Beall's absence, however, has not dampened the spirit of the Saint squad, which confidently expects to upset Long Beach, and then continue with victories over San Diego and Alhambra.

Alhambra and San Diego, completing the Coast league's small membership, clash at Alhambra Saturday in a contest that is a toss-up. San Diego's Hillers have been none too impressive down south. They just did defeat San Diego State's weak freshmen, 7-6, and were edged out, 21-20, by an ordinary San Diego Herbert Hoover eleven. Alhambra will be the "dark-horse" of the new campaign.

Knockout Likely

A fight that probably won't last the prescribed distance brings out two Negro heavyweights—Hank Lowe of Los Angeles and Dusty Davidson of Riverside. The latter stopped Sailor Donnelly in two rounds last week while Lowe dropped Sailor Dye three weeks ago for what would have been a kayo but for the fact that the bell rang to save the sailor heavyweight.

Paddy Quillon makes his second appearance here in sometime in the special, meeting Jack Ennis of Santa Ana, former tri-state flyweight champion from Ohio.

A gang of willing mixers battle it out in the remaining four rounds.

KANSAS STAR WILL HELP SAINTS IN BASKETBALL

Basketball officially enters the sports picture down at Santa Ana High school tomorrow when Coach Reece Greene calls together those court candidates who are not out for football, and gives them a few plays to drill on before the Saint gridgers report for the floor sport next month.

Bill Milligan, 190-pounder who broke his arm in the "last year's" football game in May, will not be able to scrimmage in basketball until Christmas, but he will be one of Coach Greene's best prospects for the Coast Preparatory campaign opening with Long Beach Poly here Jan. 10.

Sam Lockhart, guard, Ed Eastham, center, and Bill Flood, forward, are varsity holdovers available for early drills. Erwin Youel, first-string forward, Sophomore Bill Musick, who Coach Greene believes will develop into a good guard, and Harold Short are now busy with football. Musick was a regular at Julia Lathrop Junior High school.

HONORS SHARED AT WILLOWICK

Two Santa Ana Willowick golfers—Mrs. Anne Townsend and Mrs. Ludy Schaffer—Mrs. J. K. McDonald of Huntington Beach and Mrs. Bess Koonz of Whittier won major honors in South Coast Public Links association play at Willowick yesterday.

The ringer tournament which has run for the past three months also was completed with the following results: Los gross—Mrs. Cliff Miller, Willowick, 76; first low net—Mrs. Ben Livesey, Willowick, 83-20-60; second low net—Mrs. H. A. Bradley, 77-60.

Mrs. McDonald compiled low gross in Class A with a score of 98. Mrs. Townsend had first low net, 101-20-81, and Mrs. Kate Ketter of Huntington Beach defeated Mrs. Pearl Adams of Santa Ana in a playoff for second low net.

Class B low gross was taken by Mrs. Schaffer with 99. Mrs. Koonz carded first low net with 108-30-78, and Mrs. Mary Barnan, Long Beach, second low net, 107-26-81.

Golfers from Whittier, Long Beach, Huntington Beach and Santa Ana competed.

breakfast and we were halfway through the meal when we missed Cochrane. We thought we had lost him somewhere, for he never missed a meal before. But when we quit the dining room and headed for the chairs on the hotel steps, there was Cochrane sitting in the biggest one, smoking a big cigar and muttering "I told 'em, I told 'em," as he stared across the street at a red building that I later learned was Cochrane's alma mater. Such crust, why I was four years with the Athletics before they allowed me to sit in one of those hotel chairs."

STATE LIQUOR CONDITIONS FLAYED

Orfa Jean Shontz Raps Set-Up, Asserts Vice Is Still Rampant

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17. (AP)—Existing liquor conditions in California were under official fire for the second time in a week today.

With Senator Ralph E. Swing, San Bernardino, chairman of a senate committee named to study the liquor situation, already on record as viewing conditions with skepticism, Orfa Jean Shontz, southern member of the board of equalization, expressed a similar attitude last night.

Miss Shontz charged that "the pre-prohibition trinity of liquor, politics and vice still survives under the present system of administration."

Among other things, she recommended removal of liquor control from the board of equalization, abolition of the sale of liquor in drug stores, groceries and other goods, increased license fee to drive out "small and careless" beer and liquor dealers, and fingerprinting all applicants for liquor licenses.

STUDY CLASSES COMMENCE

Wednesday night study classes opened last night at the United Brethren church when sessions were held for groups of all ages.

Pot-luck supper beginning at 6:30 o'clock opened the programs. A 15-minute devotion followed, with classes from 6:45 to 7:40 o'clock for children studying stewardship under Mrs. Nina Hager, for young people studying "The Way to the Best," by Anderson, under Mrs. J. H. Noble, and for adults, studying "Problems of the Christian Family Life Today," by Fiske, under Mrs. Scott Wiles.

The three classes united at 7:45 for an hour's discussion of "Missions at Home and Abroad" by Showers, Wiedler and Ziegler, taught by the Rev. E. A. Johnston.

BLAME SEEPAGES FOR OIL ON BEACH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17. (AP)—Submarine oil springs off the Southern California coastline were blamed today for oil pollution drifting into the beaches.

Lieut. J. J. Purcell of the coast guard, investigating the matter for the United States attorney, said he had found no serious violation of oil dumping regulations by tankers or companies on shore, and was "convinced that these ocean floor seepages are accountable for most of the trouble."

250 ELKS CAVORT AT FALL JINKS

Elks went on an entertainment spree Tuesday night at the clubhouse when nearly 250 gathered for the Fall Jinks.

Dinner preceded the seven acts of vaudeville that had been brought to Santa Ana from Los Angeles for the occasion. John Miller, chairman of the entertainment committee, was in charge of arrangements.

CANTANDO CLUB PROMISES EXCELLENT FIRST EVENT

"Something very startling in the way of guest artistry" and "no lowering of musical standard, but a program easy to enjoy" are promised by the Cantando club for its first concert of the new season, Tuesday evening, Nov. 19, W. K. Hillyard, press chairman of the club, said today.

Benjamin Edwards, M. M., director of Fullerton District Junior college a cappella choir, and new director of Cantando, is busy rehearsing the men singers each Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Church of the Messiah guild hall.

Mr. Edwards, whose musical education began at St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., and has continued up to the present year with special studies in piano, voice and composition, has been on the faculties of five institutions.

He received his bachelor of music degree in '22, attended Mar de Mar School of Music to study piano and composition, received his master of music degree with majors in voice and composition from U. S. C. in '32, and attended summer session at the Christian Science School of Choral Conducting, Winona Lake, Ind., in '35.

He has also coached in piano, voice and composition with various master teachers in the East and West.

He taught in the Eugene Bible university, Ore.; College of the Pacific at Stockton; San Joaquin Teachers college, and San Bernardino college before coming to Fullerton.

BENJAMIN EDWARDS

He organized and directed eight different choruses in Oregon and California and directed church music groups in the two states.

He has conducted a number of fine choruses and church choirs, has made more than 500 major concert appearances as soloist in voice and piano in the past 13 years, and is the writer of more than 150 works for piano, voice and choir. He has written a symphony, "Levonne."

Since 1930 he has been on the Fullerton faculty.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

WITH A MICROPHONE tucked under his arm and a look of optimism on his face, Walter B. Pitkin, noted author and educator, will spend his week-ends visiting different parts of the country searching for unbiased opinions on questions of popular interest. Titled "We Americans," the series will be heard weekly over KHJ-CBS at 5 o'clock, starting Saturday.

Broadcasts are to originate from settings contiguous to the subjects discussed. At the American Royal SCENES Livestock show in Kansas City this week, Pitkin will question farmers on new deal legislation and policies.

Detroit's waterfront, Park avenue and the fishing villages along New England's coast will be covered during forthcoming broadcasts.

Pitkin, professor of journalism at Columbia and author of the best seller, "Life Begins at Forty," will approach this new assignment from the commonfolk viewpoint of the Maryland farmer, an avocation he vigorously follows and is not absorbed in writing.

Two outstanding vocalists—Lucy Bori and Richard Bonelli—should lend a great deal of charm to your radio tonight. Both sing STARS over KHJ-CBS with soprano Bori on the Atwater Kent show at 5:30, and Baritone Bonelli at 6:30 on "To Arms for Peace."

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson will speak during the latter broadcast. Bob Burns, the tootin'-bassoon comic, again headlines Pael White-mann's show, KFI-NBC at 7 o'clock. Edith Loranda's Gypsy REFRAINS band has also been given on prominent billing.

Helen Jepson, Ramona, Bob Lawrence, the King's Men and the rest of the brilliant Whiteman ensemble are to be heard as usual.

Lanny Ross is still worrying about a soprano to take Mary Lou's place. Three young ladies will be auditioned aboard the mythical Show Boat tonight, KFI-NBC, 6 QUARTET o'clock. They are Sylvia Brema, Dorothy Baker and Ruby Mercer.

The booking of Clyde Barrie, Negro baritone, will help this program a great deal. Conrad Thibault was switched to a show of his own. Someone was smart.

Details of "The Symphony Hour," KFI-NBC, 9:15, follow:
Overture—"La Gazza Ladera" Rossini.
Rondo—"Haffner Serenade" Mozart.

QUICK WINNER IN TALKTEST

"Safety First" was the subject of the talk given by LeRay Quick which won first place in the speaking contest held by Smedley chapter of Toastmaster's International at its meeting last evening at James cafe. Mr. Quick said the annual toll of deaths from automobile accidents in the United States is greater than the population of Santa Ana.

L. F. Kellogg, a guest speaker from the Anaheim Toastmasters club, won second place in the speaking contest with his talk on "Scientific Thinking."

Dr. Max Henderson, second of the two exchange speakers from the Anaheim club, discussed the new political set-up in Canada under the title of "The New Cook."

"Bombing" was the title of the talk given by W. S. Phelps, and he and Dr. Henderson tied for third place in the speaking contest, which was unusual in that the guest speakers competed with the local club's speakers.

"The Social Security Act" was the subject of the talk given by George DeRoulhac, and J. Lee Hewitt spoke on "On the Firing Line."

Bert Lawver presided as toastmaster of the evening with D. H. Tibbals as his general critic.

HEALTH TALK HEARD BY MCKINLEY P.-T. A.

McKinley Parent-Teacher association members heard of "Health Habits" on Tuesday when Orion Behermeyer, Westminster, talked at their meeting at the school.

Willard Junior High school Glee club sang.

Mrs. George Krock announced the benefit pot-luck supper for members and families next Tuesday evening at the school at 6 o'clock.

Sixth grade mothers served coffee and cake from a tea table set with Halloween colors.

SPURGEON P.-T. A. HEARS AID PLEA, HEALTH SYMPOSIUM

Varied items made a complete program for the Spurgeon Parent-Teacher association meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the school.

Mrs. Max Holmes, appealing for aid in the Christmas Tuberculosis seal drive, was given indorsement by the group. Mrs. Neal Beisel led a symposium on health in which Mrs. Mary B. Robertson represented the home; Miss Margaret Kuehl, the nursing profession; the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, church; and Walter Egger, the school.

Sixth grade mothers served refreshments at the close of the meeting. Selections from the school operetta were given by the fourth grade. Plans were made for a Halloween carnival Oct. 25.

The program was under direction of Mrs. Frank Corey.

FIRES OUT BEFORE TRUCKS ARRIVE

Firemen on Tuesday answered two alarms, the first shortly before 1 p. m. and the other at 2:18 p. m. In both cases the fires were out before the trucks arrived at the scenes.

The first call was to the Shepard Tractor Equipment Co., 410 West Fifth street, where the contents of a gasoline tank had become ignited by sparks from a welding device. There was no damage done.

The second fire was at the home of P. C. Van Dorn, 1319 West Third street. A portion of the roof had become ignited from the flue of the hot water heater. Damage was negligible.

TEST WELL AT 2,000 FEET

The Continental Oil company's test hole which is being sunk on the 1000-acre lease southwest of Santa Ana has reached a depth of 2,300 feet, according to reliable information released today. According to the report, the hole has been sunk with little difficulty and work is progressing rapidly.

At 1,900 feet, the drill passed through a stratum of oily mud. At 2,100 feet, hard shale was struck, and at the present time, the bottom of the test hole is in black dirt.

WINTER MOTORING BEING MADE SAFER

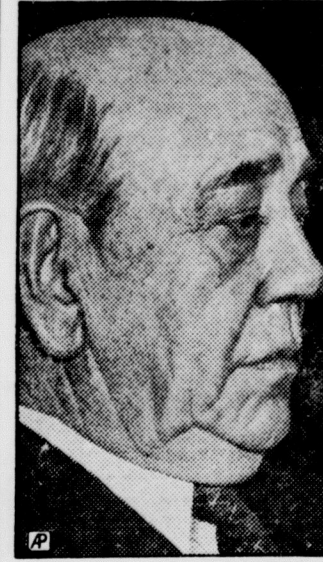

Although it is an activity receiving scant publicity, the task of making winter motoring safer and more comfortable has been one of the outstanding accomplishments of makers of accessories, according to Murray Rosenfeld, general manager of the Pep Boys of California.

"Some years ago, in motoring's infancy, it was simply a matter of good tires, storm curtains and... since pavement was scarce... tire chains," Mr. Rosenfeld said recently. "Now, however, dozens of important aids to safe driving are offered."

"Windshield wipers improve in design and efficiency each year. Closed cars are in the majority... in contrast to the early 1920's... so storm curtains are 'out,' but car heaters for those susceptible to chill weather, offer real driving luxury."

The local Pep Boys Store, 211 North Main street, is featuring accessories and supplies of this type, in anticipation of the coming winter motoring season.

His Excellency—

RUBY LAFFOON
The Governor of Kentucky

WITTY, cheerful, humorous and aggressive, Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky probably will go down in history as one of the bluegrass state's most prominent governors when he leaves office at the end of this year. . . . The governor enjoys a good joke. . . . He gets a kick out of newspaper caricatures of himself. . . . Laffoon is equally at home in preaching a memorial sermon or lambasting a political foe from the stump. . . . He can quote the Bible when the occasion calls for it, and, if need be, can speak with the "emphasis" of a sailor. . . . Scattering Kentucky colonelies all over the nation, Laffoon has more than 5000 men, women and children on his staff. . . . He is tall, muscular, bald, and lame in one leg. . . . He is 66 years old, married, and has three children. . . . During his administration, Laffoon probably has figured in more political squabbles than any of his predecessors. . . . the genial governor re-

ORANGE. — Jesse Hill, who played on the New York Yankee ball team during the past season, was speaker at the Lions club at noon yesterday. He was introduced by Charles Webber, who was associated with him both in Santa Ana Junior college and U. S. C.

Mr. Hill was graduated from U. S. C. in 1930 and never played collegiate baseball until that spring, although he starred in both track and football. He played with Hollywood in the Pacific Coast league four years ago, spent two years with Newark and one with Minneapolis before entering the Yankee camp this spring.

He spoke of the difficulty and strain of playing a game every day during the season. He said that every team has a number of college graduates.

In the major leagues all pitchers and fielders are good players while in the minor leagues one or two men in each class are good and the rest mediocre, he said. Baseball is the most honest professional sport today, as players will not sacrifice their future for a few dollars, he concluded.

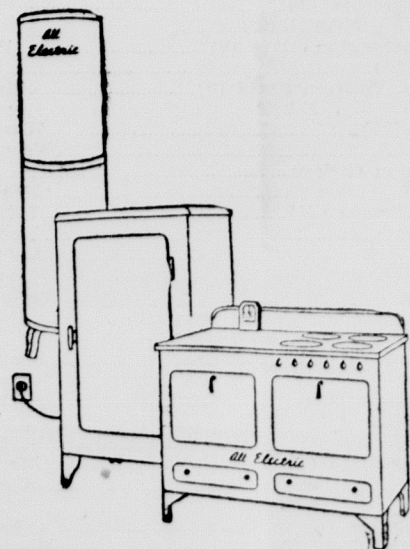

Last year's varsity baseball team attended in a body and were luncheon guests of the club, together with H. C. Chambers, their coach. Herbert Demming was program chairman.

cently jumped into the midst of an election battle that gave him his first severe setback since he took office. . . . His candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination this year was defeated. . . . Completing his four-year term in November, 1935, Laffoon is not eligible for re-election.

250,000 Women in Southern California have already taken the first step . . .

By installing an electric refrigerator, range or dishwasher in their kitchens, a quarter-million home-makers are on their way toward an ALL-ELECTRIC KITCHEN. Step by step—one piece at a time—old-fashioned kitchen equipment is being replaced by new, modern electrical household appliances. This method of owning a modern kitchen is practical. It is so very easy. Especially now, when the purchase prices are so low and the terms so considerate of your income. And there is such a variety of types and styles to choose from! LANGER MUST FACE MORE CHARGES

Ex-North Dakota Chief Executive Cited With Trio for Perjury

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 17. (AP)—Former Gov. William Langer, soon to be retried on charges that caused his removal from office today faced a new indictment charging him and three associates with perjury.

The former chief executive and Frank Vogel, Oscar E. Erickson, and R. A. Kinzer were indicted yesterday in federal court in connection with an affidavit of prosecution filed recently against Judge Andrew Miller, who presided in the original Langer trial.

United States District Attorney P. W. Lanier said the perjury cases would be brought to trial upon conclusion of the conspiracy case in Bismarck.

Four perjury indictments were returned yesterday, one against each defendant. It is charged in the indictments that falsehoods were made concerning statements made by Judge Miller in addressing the jury panel before the trial got under way.

Langer originally was tried with others and was convicted of conspiracy to solicit funds from federal relief workers. He was sentenced to serve 18 months in a federal penitentiary and pay a $10,000 fine, but he appealed and won a new trial by decision of the circuit court of appeals.

CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE TO HONOR LEADERS TONIGHT

United Presbyterian church young people will have national church leaders as their guests tonight at a banquet in the church at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. Homer B. Henderson, Grove City, Pa., member of the national board of education of the church, will talk on "Youth Building a New World."

Moses M. Shaw, his companion, who is general secretary of young people's work of the United Presbyterian church, will show pictures of "Youth in Action."

The two executives are on a two-months tour of the west and will have just the one night here. Representatives from the Long Beach church will also be present.

IRVINE MAN NABBED ON DRIVING CHARGE

Lecil Boosey, Irvine, charged with drunken driving, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Ezra Stanley and Steve Duhart last night and booked at the county jail. According to a report filed by the officers, Boosey was driving his car in an erratic manner along the highway near Tustin.

Plight of Local Deaf Girl Leads to Establishment of Lip-Reading Class Here

By ELLEN SNEBLEY

If Miss Elsie Lee Huffine, 17-year-old Santa Ana school girl, could hear, scores of deaf or partially deaf adults of the community today would not know how to read lips.

Because of Elsie Lee's great desire to go to school like other girls and boys, her mother, Mrs. O. L. Huffine, 412 Hobart street, five years ago began a crusade which resulted in formation of the adult lip-reading classes taught since then by Miss Ruth Bartlett.

Today, Elsie Lee can sit across from you and talk easily and naturally, though she is completely deaf. She and her associates in the lip-reading study mingle in social groups and cannot be distinguished from individuals with normal hearing.

A woman who had not gone to a party in 25 years, and another who had been a stay-at-home for 15 years now "never miss a chance" to go places. Others too have had life re-opened to them because now they don't have to say "what?"

Some 50 night students and 25 or more day students study each season in the Monday class, the Wednesday evening advanced class and the Tuesday and Thursday morning advanced classes taught by Miss Bartlett.

Even before this latest refunding operation, however, the treasury held $145,000,000 of such marked money. Those presenting First Liberty bonds could get $84,000,000 of it, though that issue was called four months ago and has not been drawing interest since then.

Some $50,000,000 of war bonds was being held without interest on recently called treasury notes, certificates of indebtedness and treasury bills, all short term obligations.

$400,000,000 'BEGGING' IN CAPITAL

Treasury Holding Huge Sum for Years; Few Claim Their Cash

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The treasury has almost $400,000,000 ready to hand out to anyone who presents the proper papers, but many millions of it have gone begging for years.

The money is earmarked for payment to those holding treasury obligations which have matured and on which no interest is being paid. Its use is saving the government thousands of dollars in interest.

Millions Neglected. A large part of the fund probably will be paid out during the next few weeks to holders of the recently called Fourth Liberty Loan bonds, but treasury officials expect several millions never will be called for.

More than $6,000,000 is payable on securities that reached maturity 18 to 100 years ago. Most of it, officials said, probably never will be demanded, because the certificates of ownership have been lost, stolen or destroyed.

About $5,000,000 more is held against long matured Liberty loan bonds other than Fourth. Some of it has been waiting since 1922.

Some $250,000,000 of the Fourth Liberties were not exchanged for other securities in the recent refinancing and are redeemable in cash. Officials said past records indicate that probably about $1,000,000 worth of these bonds will never be redeemed.

Even before this latest refunding operation, however, the treasury held $145,000,000 of such marked money. Those presenting First Liberty bonds could get $84,000,000 of it, though that issue was called four months ago and has not been drawing interest since then.

Some $50,000,000 of war bonds was being held without interest on recently called treasury notes, certificates of indebtedness and treasury bills, all short term obligations.

DEVELOP HALF OF PARK NOW

(By The Associated Press)

Half of Orange county's proposed Harbor park project, in the north end of Newport Bay, will be developed at this time as a Works Progress administration job instead of the entire area to be eventually included in the program, County Highway Engineer Nat Neff announced today.

The plan for development of the 60 acres of swamp land and water north of the highway at the head of the Newport lagoon will give Orange county a still water playground with a beach 300 feet wide and more than three-quarters of a mile long. To do this it will be necessary to dredge the lagoon to a depth of from six to 10 feet.

Mr. Neff said that dredging equipment now working in the harbor is too large to work in the lagoon, so the present program will be confined to half the property, or development of 30 acres of land and water.

Elimination of half the property from the present development project under WPA will permit expenditure of the entire $57,000, allocated for the project in a more comprehensive program on the area remaining, Mr. Neff said.

The project will include building of roads, leveling of the property, installation of water lines, landscaping and other development work. The remaining 30 acres of land and water will be developed at a later date, Mr. Neff said.

FORECLOSURE OF $7000 DEED ASKED. Foreclosure of a $7000 trust deed on 29½ lots in Laguna Beach district is sought in a suit started in superior court yesterday by Mrs. Jeannette P. Haskell against Joseph S. Thurston, Mrs. Marie H. Thurston, Frances Maloney and W. A. Taylor, as trustees in bankruptcy for the estate of Joseph S. Thurston, the Union Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles, and the California First National Bank of Long Beach.

JESSE STRAUS GIVES AWAY MILLIONS

Gifts of Stocks Made By Ambassador and Brother Are Huge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Securities commission reports said today that Jesse Isidor Straus, American ambassador to France, and Percy S. Straus, his brother, have given away $5,619,740 worth of stock.

The gifts comprised 127,000 shares of common stock of R. H. Macy & Co. New York department store. The recipients of the gifts were not disclosed, such information not being required by the government.

The gifts swelled the total of millions of dollars worth of securities given away by corporation officials and large stockholders in the past few months. Such contributions are subject to lower taxes now than they would be if they were delayed until after next January 1, when a new gift tax schedule goes into effect.

Ambassador Straus gave 52,000 shares valued at $2,301,000. Official tax tables showed the present tax on such a gift, if made to one person, would be about $484,000. Under the new rate it would be $560,700.

Percy S. Straus gave 75,000 shares valued at $3,318,750, on which the present tax is about $774,700, against the new tax of $579,450.

The August total of gifts reported by corporation officials and stockholders now stands at $20,000,000. Besides $13,000,000 previously made public, and the Straus gifts, other men gave away $2,150,000.

CLUB HEARS OF DOG AS HOBBY

Members of the Santa Ana 20-30 club at their dinner meeting in the James Cafe Tuesday night heard Z. B. West, Santa Ana attorney, give an informal discussion on dogs, his hobby.

"Dogs originally were owned by man as a means of providing a living," Mr. West said. "They were used for hunting game, and the original man learned to depend upon dogs to a great extent. Later, they were developed for sporting purposes, some of them for fighting, some for show purposes, and some for hunting. Today there are 102 different breeds of dogs, and so far as I know, the original breed from which all other breeds developed is extinct."

Mr. West had with him several of the awards won by his famous Scottish terrier, the late Tolivera Toddlar, several times world champion. Tolivera Toddlar was Mr. West's favorite, and a short time ago the champion Scottie developed an illness which made it necessary to put him to death.

SANTA ANAN HELD ON AUTOMOBILE THEFT CHARGE

William Bollinger, 40, of 2020 Kilson drive, Santa Ana, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison yesterday, and held under $2500 bail on charges of grand theft of an automobile. His preliminary hearing will be held in the Santa Ana justice court at 9 a. m., Oct. 22.

Bollinger was brought to Santa Ana yesterday from the Riverside county jail where he had just completed a 120-day term for petty theft. According to Deputy Sheriff James Ragan, who has been investigating the grand theft charge against Bollinger, he assertedly made a deal to purchase a car from W. J. Furber, 708 East Fourth street, Santa Ana. Bollinger is alleged to have made a down payment on the car last March, but failed to make any further payments. Since that time, Bollinger assertedly disposed of the car.

"Look there!" Puffy shouts (the balloon's going higher). "That looks like the smoke from a big forest fire!" "It is, so it is," cries the monk in alarm. The sky's dark with smoke—will they come to some harm?

Orange's Blind Sea Captain Recalls His Adventures In 19 Journeys Around Globe

By ROCH BRADSHAW

Capt. George Rooke Huddy, 88, has been blind since 1932, but he can sit on his front porch at 251 North Shaffer street, Orange, and live through more adventures in half an hour than most men experience in a lifetime. Nineteen times he has been around the world in windjammers, auxiliary and full steam vessels, as premium apprentice, mate and captain.

Yesterday we sat together on a porch swing, and before his sightless eyes there passed a moving picture that began in 1864. It carried us through storms at sea, past towering icebergs, or showed us Mohammedan pilgrims for Mecca dying like flies while a crew of untrained Arabs tried to fight off cholera and keep the ship on its way.

As Captain Huddy described what he saw, the porch swing swayed a little, suggesting the sea.

He Ploughs the Sea. As a boy he wanted to be a farmer after his schooling at Epsom in Cornwall, Wales, but when that career was closed to him he picked the sea.

"I thought I'd like to plough the sea if I couldn't plough the land," said Captain Huddy.

In 1864 he joined the sailing ship Lincolnshire on which he rose to be first mate. Later he was chief mate on the auxiliary steamer Northumberland and then took command of her sister ship, the Durham. Then he commanded the full-powered steamer Essex and later the Port Jackson.

Taken Overboard. "When the Northumberland could travel eight or nine knots by sail, we lifted the two-bladed propeller," recalled Captain Huddy. "On one voyage coming home the wind was blowing pretty fresh. We were going to lift the propeller and take off some canvas. She shipped a big sea and took me overboard."

"By accident I caught one foot in a rope and was washed back on again. But the next thing I knew I was being washed out once more through a porthole. I just had time to think how lonely it would be to be left astray. No small boat could live in that sea. By a bit of luck I managed to get my hands on the plate as I was going feet first through the porthole, and hung on. The next time the water receded, I saved myself."

The porch swing swayed again and the picture changed.

"I've counted 50 icebergs in sight at once. And here's one thing some folks may not believe: Going to New Zealand, toward Cape Horn, we passed the largest berg I ever saw. We were running 10 knots. We took the time when the eastern end of the iceberg was abeam and again when the western end was abeam. It took us three hours to pass, and the iceberg probably was seven miles away."

Carried Pilgrims

"On another trip we were carrying Mohammedan pilgrims on their way to worship at Mecca. We went by way of Penang, on the Malay peninsula. We landed our people at Jeddah, on the Red Sea, and discharged our cargo. They made their way on to Mecca as best they could. When we got ready to take our pilgrims back on board, cholera and smallpox had broken out ashore. The ship's crew refused to take the people aboard. I got orders to go to Aden, in Arabia, discharge the crew in quarantine and take on what I could get. I shipped about 50 or 60 Arabs and went back to Jeddah. We got the pilgrims aboard, but one man fell back dead as he was climbing from the small boat to the ship's ladder. They died from cholera all the way back, six or eight a day. And they wouldn't let us come near to help them."

"As we started for Singapore, the third mate died and we had to put his body overboard. At last we got our pilgrims back. That trip started my hair growing white."

Finally, in 1892, Captain Suddy left the sea. He came to El Toro and attained his boyhood ambition of being a farmer.

Saw 'Ad' In Paper. "I saw an advertisement in the London Standard, telling about fruit growing in California. It was written by Dwight Whiting. He and some others had come to London to get people to settle on his 10,000-acre ranch."

"When I came out, I brought my sextant, telescope and binoculars and thought if I didn't like it, I'd go up to Victoria and sail on a British ship. But I liked it. I built a house, put down a well and set out trees. It was all very nice as long as I was able to work the place myself. Hiring help was expensive and didn't pay as I hoped it would. In 1919 I sold my place and came to Orange."

NAZI BOYCOTT INDORSED AT CONVENTION

Labor Union Members Urged Not to Enter Athletic Festival

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 17. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor voted today to oppose this country's participation in the Berlin Olympic games next year.

The federation convention also voted that A. F. of L. members should not participate in the games, that a labor boycott on Nazi goods and services be intensified and that all unions should contribute to the fund for help of German trade union refugees.

Favors Labor Codes. The convention also voted for revival of industrial codes, abandoned when the NRA was declared unconstitutional.

Resolutions adopted at the convention deplored "feeble attempts" made by a few industries to submit trade agreements to take the place of the codes under the National Recovery administration but which in reality are mere sham and without any social significance.

The federation condemned the National Liberty league and its committee of 58 lawyers whose informal opinion declared the Wagner Labor Relations act unconstitutional.

Postpones Recovery. Since the collapse of the NRA, the federation declared the breakdown of code labor standards "can only have the inevitable result of indefinitely postponing recovery."

It commented upon President Roosevelt's studies of possible renewal of code technique and pledged assistance in continuance of the principles of the NRA, "with adequate labor participation in code making, code administration and code reformation."

The federation directed its officers to conduct a campaign for ratification of the child labor amendment in the 12 states needed to complete the three-fourths majority required; 12 are needed to ratify.

over. I left Captain Huddy, sitting on the porch swing that swayed a little, suggesting the sea.

The Exchange ...and this community

Active support and cooperation can benefit every citizen of citrus districts

WITHOUT such a growers organization as the California Fruit Growers Exchange, the citrus industry could not have survived the conditions existing at the time of its founding in 1893.

Today 200,000 people are directly dependent on the industry for their livelihood. Hardly a resident of this region is unaffected by its prosperity. Over half a billion dollars is invested in groves and packing houses in California and Arizona.

These facts measure the responsibility of the Exchange in a leadership made inescapable by the will of three-fourths of the industry.

The Exchange cannot act on snap judgment or resort to opportunist tactics. Too much is at stake. Its course must be determined by careful weighing of the facts.

The Exchange cannot be content with the market as it finds it. It must do what no small marketing agency can attempt. It must make markets.

Hence Exchange distribution is constantly expanded and improved. Sunkist advertising is employed to keep demand in harmony with production.

Exchange growers govern directly the policies and administration of their organization. They know that its destiny rests wholly upon the service the Exchange renders the industry and the community.

Today, more than ever, the Exchange merits and needs the active support of growers, bankers, business men and the public in general. From united effort will result better control of distribution, more energetic selling, increased consumer demand and a furthered welfare of every citizen of citrus districts.

Junior Clubwomen of Southland Look San Diegoward to First District Meet

22 Groups to Take Part In Conclave

Mrs. E. D. White, S. A. Clubwoman, Advisor, Aiding in Plans

Several hundred junior clubwomen in the California Federation of Women's clubs are looking forward eagerly to Saturday and Sunday when, at the U. S. Grant hotel in San Diego, the first southern district juniors' conclave will be in session.

Mrs. E. D. White, Santa Ana Ebells, southern district advisor of juniors, along with a number of the juniors is planning the conclave, delegates to which will include members of 22 Southland clubs.

Mrs. John Robertson is the juniors' state advisor. Others to be present are Mrs. F. L. McMechen, San Diego county advisor, and Mrs. Fremont Morse and Eleanor Hostetter, president and secretary for San Diego county. Mrs. Frieda Wilkinson is state president; Mary Ann Morrell, vice president, and Jean Craig, secretary of the state organization.

Presidents to Receive
On the conclave committee are Eleanor Wilson, San Diego Woman's club juniors president; Mrs. Francis Carpenter, S. D. University Heights junior auxiliary president; Harriette Sargent, past state president of juniors, and Mrs. G. M. Harrington, San Diego county program chairman.

Florence Backs, president of Anaheim Junior Ebells; Edith Page, Buena Park junior auxiliary leader; Mary Weisel, La Habra juniors leader; Nan Mead, San Ana Junior Ebells; Helena Bailey, Santa Ana Girls' Junior Ebells; Betty Adams, Junior Woman's club leader, and presidents of the other district clubs constitute the hostess committee.

The meeting will open Saturday at 10 o'clock in the morning in the hotel lobby.

Mrs. White to Speak
Greetings from the state by Mrs. Robertson, an address on "Senior Version of Junior Meeting at National Convention" by Mrs. Elbert Shirk, general federation chairman of junior membership, and an address on "Junior Version of National Convention" by Miss Sargent, will feature the morning session.

At 11:20 o'clock, Mrs. White will report on junior activities in the district. The luncheon program will include a parody on "Hamlet" by John A. Willard of the Old Globe Theater Players. After adjournment at 1 o'clock, the time through Sunday will be devoted to a tour of the grounds of the California Pacific International exposition, Balboa park.

M. G. M. ORCHESTRA TO PLAY FOR KIWANIS DANCE

The M. G. M. orchestra will provide dance music for the party at which Santa Ana Kiwanians, their wives and guests will dance Tuesday evening, Oct. 29, in the Ebells clubhouse.

Elaborate plans are being made by the Kiwanians for the semi-formal affair.

Marian Martin Says Tots Need Extra Protection of Bloomers

Warmth is mother's first thought when frost comes and winds blow cold. It's then that two-to-ten-year olds need the extra protection of snug bloomers 'neath their brief frocks. This frock buttons down the front so the kiddie may button it as easily as a coat; partly stitched pleats add skirt fullness, and puffed sleeves create little-girl charm. A quick pull, and bloomers are in place, secure with an elastic band. The kiddie that has both frock and bloomers of wool, chamois or wool-appearing cotton, will be warm as toast the whole winter long. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9621 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 requires 2 1/2 yards 36-inch Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Be sure to send for your NEW MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK! It pictures dozens of easy, thrifty ways to make up lovely new fabrics—in smart fall and winter clothes for your whole family! Shows designs for adorable, easy-to-make Christmas gifts, too. Tells how to make yourself more charming by the right choice of clothes and accessories. Send for your copy now! Price of book 15 cents. MILLS ENSEMBLE TO GIVE SUNDAY CONCERTS AT 'Y. W.'

Young musical artists will be brought to Santa Ana in three afternoon concerts the third Sunday in November, January and February when the Mills Ensemble plays at the Y. W. C. A.

Arrangements for the series of concerts were completed at the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. executive board Monday night. The ensemble recently won the highest honor in the string ensemble division of the Southern California Festival of Allied Arts.

Soloists with the ensemble is Elizabeth Montgomery, violinist, winner of the Southern California and California state contests for student violinists held by National Federation of Music Clubs. She was formerly soloist with the Pasadena Junior college symphony orchestra.

The concerts will be given from 4 to 5 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. In charge of them will be Mrs. Clarence Gustin, assisted by Mrs. H. J. Howard, Mrs. Dixon W. Guthrie, educational chairman, has planned for the musical events. Sponsors endorsing them are Mrs. William E. Otis and Mrs. C. S. Smith.

ARTS AND CRAFTS SECTION PROGRAM IS POSTPONED

Transportation difficulties necessitated the last-minute postponement of Mrs. Frederick Schwartz visit to Santa Ana Ebells arts and crafts section from yesterday morning in the clubhouse lounge until a later date, perhaps the next meeting of the section.

Mrs. Schwartz, whose home is in Monrovia, is state chairman of crafts in the California Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Clarence Gustin conducted the section meeting, at which plans were discussed or future craft projects.

GOLDEN BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES

By Mrs. Roy Buckles
Orange
Ingredients: 1 gallon cucumbers, 5 small onions, 2 green peppers (shredded), 1/2 cup salt, 5 cups vinegar (not strong), 5 cups sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoons turmeric, 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 1 teaspoon celery seed. Wash cucumbers, but do not peel. Slice very thin. Slice onions and chopped peppers. Mix with the salt and pieces of ice and let stand three hours (the ice makes them crisp). Drain, and add the sugar, vinegar and spices. Heat over a slow fire until they come to a boil. Seal.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

How do you feel about young children taking part in motion pictures?

Mrs. Pearl Adams: My daughter's baby was in a motion picture when he was very young, but that was the only contact our family has had with that sort of thing. I think a good deal rests with the parents. If they are strong enough in their own personal convictions to protect their children from any unpleasant circumstance which might be encountered, the experience might be profitable and not harmful for the youngsters.

Mrs. Charles Hossfield: I think talent in children should be encouraged. As long as the work doesn't deprive the child of youthful pleasures, and as long as proper chaperonage and care is given him, it seems to me it would not be harmful, and it would provide funds for his future education.

Mrs. G. W. Bassett: It would depend on the child. I think it gives a youngster the wrong impression of himself, a rule. It brings out self confidence, but often in too large a measure.

Mrs. Briggs Entertains Her Club

Mrs. George Briggs entertained fellow members of the Wednesday contract bridge club with a 12:30 o'clock breakfast yesterday in her home on North Broadway.

Mrs. G. G. Ruffill and Mrs. A. W. Rutan substituted for Mrs. Charles Kelly and Mrs. J. I. Clark.

Other members are Mesdames A. G. Flagg, L. F. Landis, C. V. Davis, Roy Hall, F. E. Farnsworth, Earl Morrow, Phillip Hatzfeld, James Harding and Parke Roper.

FRANK WAS HOME SCENE OF PARTY FOR VISITOR

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Was on Orange avenue was the scene of a party which gave last evening honoring Senora B. J. Gastelum of Mazatlan, Mexico, houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Gonzales, 710 East Third street.

Mrs. Gastelum's husband, Dr. Gastelum, has been prominent for years in the development of Mexico City, and has been minister to Italy. He is now supervising the construction of a new hospital in Mazatlan.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Was, the honoree and her hosts, and Senora Maria Laura Castelan, Mr. and Mrs. Arley H. Lee, and Frances, Frank, Billie and Peggy Was.

JOHN MUIR P. T. A. HEARS TALK ON JUVENILE PROBLEMS

John Muir P. T. A. members heard W. O. Mendenhall talk on "Juvenile Problems" Tuesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock when they gathered in the kindergarten room of the school. County supervisor of child welfare, the speaker had a broad background from which to draw his material.

The Girls' octet of Santa Ana Junior college sang "Homing" by Del Riego and "Snow Storm" by Rogers. A music demonstration was presented by second and third grade students under Miss Florence Hulsiek.

Plans for a Halloween carnival Oct. 31 were discussed.

TERRY HOME SCENE OF DINNER PARTY OF BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Raymond Terry entertained last evening in her home at Anaheim with a two-course supper party for members of her contract bridge club.

White linens and crystalware appointed the dinner table, which was centered with a bowl of white chrysanthemums and golden double zinnias.

Mrs. Gordon X. Richmond, substituting for Mrs. Bernard Parker, won the contract award.

Others present were Mesdames Edmund West, Lloyd Shearer, Russell Wilson and Don Park and Misses Mary Safley and Boyd Joplin.

MRS. HOFFMAN IS HOSTESS TO HER BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Asa Hoffman entertained her bridge club at a pleasant afternoon party Tuesday afternoon in her home, 1012 North Broadway. Halloween appointments were in evidence.

Mrs. Tarver Montgomery and Mrs. Alvin Nowotny won prizes for the day. A dessert course was served before the play.

Mrs. Montgomery will be next hostess to the club.

CHURCH GROUP HAS 'A-HAY-RACK' RIDE

Halloween festivities culminated in a moonlight hayrack ride for members of the I-GO-U-Cum class of the Orange Avenue Christian church Tuesday night.

The frolicers, garbed in masquerade costumes, met at the home of Mrs. Albert Boss, 2033 South Sycamore. Costumed as an "old hag," Mrs. Charles Morgan took first prize for her attire.

Halloween games were played and refreshments served. Present were Mr. and Mrs. George Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Everett McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Story, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Ferber, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Stary, Miss Ollie McIntyre of Long Beach, and the hosts.

Contract Club Has Party In Home

Misses Ruth Rowland and Anna L. Trythall shared honors in entertaining their contract bridge club with a two-course supper party last evening in Miss Rowland's home, Tustin.

Zinnias and Mexican sunflowers appointed the rooms. Each small supper table was centered with bronze chrysanthemums on Halloween party linens. Black cellophane and orange cellophane covered the prize which Miss Ruth Frothingham won in contract play.

Others present were Mrs. Clyde Cook, Mrs. Everett Lutz and Misses Josephine Arnoldy, Levinia Scott, Thelma Thomas, Hazel Dawson, Mildred Frazier, Mary Swass and Mary Schofield.

WILLARD TO HAVE FIRST PLAY NIGHT

Monthly play nights for Willard Junior High school ninth graders will be launched tomorrow night in the Y. W. C. A. rooms when the ninth grade Girl Reserves from the school, assisted by the P. T. A., sponsors the event.

Halloween decorations will be in vogue. Dancing and games will be on the program from 7:30 to 10:30. A small admission fee will be charged.

Miss Willena Bell has been chairman for the party, to be assisted by Miss Mary Porter, Girl Reserve secretary. Mrs. Paul Ragan is general chairman of the play nights.

Chaperons will include Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lund, Dr. R. J. Pagett and Mrs. Pagett, Mr. and Mrs. Ragan, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Richardson and Mrs. Mrs. Hugh Houghton.

Oct. 25, Lathrop ninth graders will hold a similar event at the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

EPSILON TAU ALPHA CLASS HAS PARTY

Waffles were the chef's special for the Epsilon Tau Alpha class of the First Methodist church at their supper meeting in the church social hall Tuesday night.

A flower bowl was the end of the treasure hunt for Mrs. Verald Seurge who was victorious in the pursuit.

In charge of the evening were Mrs. Marjorie Hare, Mrs. Bud Hannah and Mrs. Ruper McArthur, the teacher.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Hare and baby, Donna Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Seividge and baby, Donald, Mr. and Mrs. King Mustard and daughter, Laura Lee, Mrs. Hannah, and Mr. and Mrs. McArthur.

HARMONY BRIDGE CLUB HAS SESSION

Harmony Bridge club members took to play at the Masonic temple Tuesday afternoon when they assembled at 2 o'clock.

Prizes in auction went to Mrs. Max Gowdy and Mrs. Effie Neuschwanger. Mrs. W. C. McFarren took high score awards in contract.

Others present were Mesdames Al Adrain, Lloyd Folger, Don Edwards, Joe Hersher, Joe Steele, Maude Swarthout, Sam Jernigan, Ray Wyckoff and Glenn Lyeon.

Mrs. George Shippe and Mrs. William Dean will be hostesses at a 12:30 luncheon at the next meeting.

MRS. ERICKSON HAS MEETING OF FRIENDS

Table treats were in store for a group of former girlhood friends who gathered Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Adolph Erickson, 1041 West Sixth street, for an all-day meeting.

Scotch short bread, sent from a relative in Scotland, was served, and tea was poured from a 149-year-old teapot that had been brought to this country by an uncle three generations ago.

Goldenrod, state flower of Illinois, was used throughout the house for decorations.

Mary Stoddard "Mind Your Own Business," Is Today's Message Coming From An Interested Writer

By MARY STODDARD
Running some other person's business has long been a popular pastime. Two people starting out in a marriage are rarely given a chance to last in the opinions of their community. The buzz starts early in their career together and it takes only a little to set tongues off and gossips agog. It's a lot more important to get our own affairs straightened out, thinks this writer.

Dear Miss Stoddard: I find your column interesting. Now may I speak my piece?

ALAN A. REVILLS GUESTS OF HONOR AT DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Alan A. Revill were guests of honor at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. John Tessonmann and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Enderle recently in the Tessonmann home on East Seventeenth street.

Autumn leaves and fruits appointed the dinner table. After dinner, contract bridge was played. The party was planned to welcome the Revills home from a summer spent in Europe.

Mrs. William H. Spurgeon and Major M. B. Wellington won high score prizes for the evening.

Guests for the attractively-appointed affair were Mesdames and Mesdames D. K. Hammond, W. Brad Hells, C. S. Crookshank, L. K. King, William H. Spurgeon and Alan Revill and Major M. B. Wellington and Mrs. Wellington.

MRS. OBERMILLER COMPLIMENTED BY HER MOTHER

Mrs. Albert Obermiller was given a birthday dinner party last evening by her mother, Mrs. E. E. Honnauert, in the latter's home on North Ross street.

Autumn flowers decked the home. A large birthday cake was given the honoree. The evening was spent in visiting.

Guests included Messrs. Obermiller and Honnauert and the Obermiller's baby, Mona; Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Engle and son, Donald; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Huston, Mrs. Blanche Maddux, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lentz and son, Lowell, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Simington and their three children.

BRIDGE CLUB HAS EVENING PARTY AT DORIS KATHRYN

Mrs. Harold Carnahan entertained members of her bridge club with a party last evening in the Doris Kathryn tearoom. Autumn flowers centered the table at which a salad, sandwich and coffee course was served.

Mrs. James Dickson and a substitute player, Mrs. Raymond Marcell, won prizes.

Mrs. Andy Anderson and Mrs. Elmer Christianson were other guests, and Mesdames I. A. Mercer, Clifford Cole and Arthur Carothers, other members present.

MUSICAL ARTS CLUB TO MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Santa Ana Musical Arts club will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Vieta studios, 425 West First street.

A special program is planned for the evening.

FRANKLIN P. T. A. BOOKS TWO EVENTS

Two events purport to hold attention of Franklin Parent-Teacher association members this month, according to plans made at their meeting at the school Tuesday.

Mrs. G. E. Bogart, 1548 West First street, will be hostess at a Halloween party Wednesday evening, Oct. 30. Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Mrs. Louis Harris, 1416 West Third street, will open her home to a tea at which the executive board will be hostess to grade mothers.

Mrs. R. R. Russick, leader of Girl Scout troop No. 1, talked at the session on Girl Scout activities.

150 Present at Party Given By Section

Thirty-three tables of auction and contract bridge were in play at the autumn card party which Santa Ana Ebells current events section gave for the benefit of the general club's treasury yesterday afternoon in the clubhouse.

A stack of rustling cornstalks in the entrance to the clubhouse suggested the autumn theme used in flowers and candles for the party. Homemade apple pie with ice cream and coffee constituted the dessert course served, and homemade apple pies in Halloween wrappings were given as table prizes.

Mrs. Hugh Shields was general chairman of the party.

New Twin Bill At Broadway

Timely and interesting pictures of Ethiopia, taken just before the war with Italy began and just before war-time censorship on pictures was imposed, are shown in a feature-length production, "Wings Over Ethiopia," which opens today at the Broadway theater, with a second feature, "Two For Tonight," starring Bing Crosby.

"Wings Over Ethiopia" will give Broadway theater audiences a thorough insight into the country which now is making headlines, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain. The picture starts with a plane leaving Zurich, flying south over Italy, Alexandria, Port Said, following the Suez to Addis Ababa. By plane, train, donkey and foot, the travelers journey through the plains of Ethiopia to the interior, encountering many strange tribes, communities and animals.

Bing Crosby is said to be at his sparkling best in "Two For Tonight," both as a singer and as a comedian. Several new song hits are introduced in this comedy, which features such popular players as Joan Bennett, Mary Boland, Thelma Todd and Lynne Overman.

CONTRACT GROUP OF EBELL CLUB CLOSING ROSTER

Meeting last evening in the Ebells clubhouse lounge, members of Santa Ana Valley Ebells contract bridge section closed the section's membership list.

C. H. Johnson discussed responses and rebidding in his lecture. Board play followed.

Mrs. Chester Horton opened the meeting. There was no business session, nor will there be any while the lecture series is in progress.

War Headlines Fail to Influence; 'Boom' Talk Dies Down

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Selective buying proved a sustaining force in today's stock market, but profit taking in several recent favorites acted as a restraining influence on spurring prices.

There was little bearish sentiment in evidence, but "boom" talk was not so loud as during the past several days. The war headlines did not seem to have much effect on trends. Domestic industrial happenings were watched closely.

Shares of Mack Truck, Curtiss Publishing, Owens-Illinois, Swift, Wilson & Co. Preferred, Western Union, American Power & Light Preferred and United Corp. Preferred advanced 1 to 2 points. A steady to slightly improved tone was shown by U. S. Steel, General Motors, Auburn, Packard, Briggs Mfg., General Electric, American Can, Westinghouse, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, National Biscuit, Borden, Pacific, Santa Fe, Great Northern and Howe Sound. Moderate losers included Chrysler, Du Pont, Johnsonville, U. S. Smelting and American Smelting. A new low for the year was touched by Alaska Juneau with the loss of a point.

OUR NEIGHBOR COMES HOME

A. J. CRUICKSHANK, whom many of us familiarly call "Gus," put the silver lining in a cloud of doubt, and, characteristic of his unconquerable spirit, appeared in the mountain camp from which he had lost his way, after giving his family and friends several days of intense anxiety.

The news of his safe return sent a flood of praise welling up from the hearts of everybody in Santa Ana. A man who has spent half a century of his life in this community naturally acquires, through business and social associations, a long list of friendships. Those who knew him intimately, and others remotely, all expressed their anxiety during his absence. His safe return in the face of unfavorable climatic conditions made his appearance all the more fervent.

The incidents of his experience are trivial. His safety is of great import to those who know him and love him. "A. J." will get two welcomes. He has already received one by his camp associates, the other will be ready when "our neighbor comes home."

Admiral Byrd says he wants to go to the Antarctic again. Won't somebody please take up a collection and buy him a motorcycle and start him on his way?

MR. CUTTLE AND THE MOJAVE

ELSEWHERE in The Journal today appears a letter from Francis Cuttle, of Riverside, who chides The Journal for its comment about the recent Mojave river conference which Mr. Cuttle held at Riverside.

Mr. Cuttle insists there was no effort to obtain indorsement of a move to divert the water from the Mojave to Riverside and Orange counties. It was only a meeting called to study a report of the United States Department of Agriculture, with no thought of saying whether it was good or bad for the water users. Just a friendly get-together of a few invited promoters.

Regardless of what the purpose of the conference was, it accomplished nothing except to afford an excellent object lesson to Orange county. It proved what The Journal has contended all along—that, should water users of this area become involved in an endless water war with Riverside, San Bernardino and the desert, its chance for a drink of the Mojave would be small indeed. Mr. Cuttle's intelligence should tell him Orange county is not going to be party to another tri-county tie-up in a matter so important as water supply. We may have been dumb in the past, but we have learned our water problem is our problem, and cannot be solved to our advantage by our neighbors.

Roger Babson says the depression will be over in six months but the standard of living will be lower. In that case, why not keep the depression? Or dispose of Babson?

LOSING TRADE, NOT DOLLARS

FIVE days after President Roosevelt's proclamation warning against trade with belligerents, the New York port development conference complained bitterly that it had already caused a loss of five million dollars in trade with Italy.

That means one million dollars a day in trade sacrificed for American peace. And if we can estimate that exporters average 10 per cent net profit, it means $100,000 a day thrown away just to keep us from getting involved in a possible European-African war.

But before we feel too downcast about this, it might be a good idea to think about other entries in a war-trade ledger. At the start of the World war we didn't do anything so foolish as to sacrifice trade with Europe. No, indeed! We let our financiers lend the people's money to Europe to buy. And when that game played out, we started pumping out the taxpayers' billions in credit to Europe. And we told our exporters to go to it. And they did. They sold billions' worth of goods to Europe. Our navy backed them up. And then our drafted youth.

And today we enter on our books such items as this: Daily cost of pensions, adjusted compensation and hospitalization of World war veterans: About $1,250,000.

A few years ago President Coolidge estimated that the World war had already cost America $50 billion dollars, and would eventually cost 100 billions. (At the time he said it, Mr. Coolidge was presuming that Europe would eventually repay the war debts.)

We are not mentioning here any consideration except dollars.

FIFTY-ONE TO ONE

WHETHER you believe in the League of Nations or not, it will be interesting to watch the result of 51 nations' attempt to make Italy conform to world opinion. Almost for the first time in history, world opinion is organized, and world power is concentrated on one subject.

If the effort fails, then the doctrine of international cooperation will be destroyed for a long time.

If it wins, then the same doctrine may be expected to grow more vigorous.

Of course, there should be international cooperation. The world is too small, communication of ideas too swift, distances are too short for nations, huddled up together in Europe, to maintain isolationist policies.

Europe will have to choose, within a few years, whether to become a second United States, or simply disintegrate in a series of stupid wars.

Whimsies

of O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The depression's aftermath coiled many queer mental kinks along its destructive path. There is the middle-aged man—a about-town with a flourishing business of his own who lost everything in 24 hours. Fortunately he has several grown children amply fixed.

They provide for all the needed comforts, including the fresh lappel flower he has worn since early manhood. Yet poverty's mark of terror is still upon him. Rational about most things, he believes he is penniless and in danger of starvation.

So when he meets acquaintances on the streets he panhandles for as little as 25 cents. By continues to lunch at the best places, charge accounts having been arranged for him. Even after a filling meal he will often ask the waiter for loan of a small amount.

Then the Wall street broker, once a delight to the gleamers along the way that is white. He, too, was untrussed over night. The shock gave him a delusion of grandeur. With his spare nickels he phones for table reservations at expensive cafes and eats in one-armed lunches.

With a new three-year starring contract, Irvin S. Cobb is likely lost to New York permanently. He has put his co-operative Park avenue apartment and Easthampton home on the market. And sometime ago bought a former Garbo mansion at Santa Monica. Cobb's advent in the movies was not a sudden whim or freak of circumstances. He has always had a secret longing to be an actor. He expresses it in a limited way by his country-wide swing of the chautauques and on various lecture junkets. When in the full flush of his writing career, he worked from 9 a. m. until 1 p. m. daily and his afternoons were usually spent at the Lambs or The Players in company with actors. His cronies included Folbrook Blinn, Marylyn Anickie, Frank Craven, Wilton Lackaye, Sam Bernard and Lew Fields.

Up until a few years ago, there were four grand old men of the palm days of opera bouffe. They were DeWolf Hopper, Francis Wilson, Jefferson DeAngelis and Frank Daniels. They were all past 70 and seemed destined to reach the century mark. But time changed the picture and only Wilson remained. Of the illustrious four, three came out of that marvelous incubator of talent, the McCaull Opera company, Daniels being the exception. Francis Wilson, the survivor, is lively as a cricket. His notes now and then have the jubilant spirit of a very young man.

A jobless telegraph operator in Reading, Pa., writes: "I am grateful to the depression for an acquaintance with Dickens. Employed, I would not have visited the public library and spent hours with the author who top-notches in making the trivial tremendous. Dickens can take a speck of dust and make it swirl, whirl, and swirl through a half dozen pages. So that a wisp becomes a whirlwind."

They tell of a Saturday night fistfight in Leavenworth, Kansas, in which Bide Dudley was one of the participants in his younger days. His opponent was twice his size and husky. Before any actual blows were struck, three lookers-on grabbed Dudley while one man grabbed his enemy. After a little scuffling Bide said to his trio: "Two of you fellows go over and help hold him. One man can hold me."

No modern novelist has a name so damascened in courtly splendor as Coningsby Dawson. It even surpasses Sir Hall Caine. He makes one think in terms of gold plate service, of lackeys in silver-buckled knee breeches, of the pampered heir, the son of the old Earl who calls his father "Governor."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—According to inside word received by the navy department, Mussolini has given strict instructions to Italian naval commanders to avoid a clash with British shipping at any cost. This is considered significant.

Obviously, the last thing Mussolini wants is war with Britain, and he knows that nothing is more liable to fan British opinion to white heat than tampering with a vessel flying the Union Jack.

Probably, therefore, British vessels carrying munitions to Ethiopia under the lifted League embargo, will be able to land their cargoes at the terminus of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway without hindrance.

What Mussolini is counting on is catching the munitions after they leave Djibouti and begin their hazardous three-day trip on a narrow gauge line across the Ethiopian plateau.

On one occasion Propaganda Minister Goebbels made a public reference to the fact that Miss Dadd publicly exhibited sympathy for persecuted Jews.

GERMAN ARMAMENT AMERICAN embassy dispatches from Berlin indicate that the Germans are rubbing their hands in great glee over the League quarrel with Italy. It all plays into Hitler's hands.

Meanwhile the American military attaché in Berlin reports more military training in the Reich than ever was seen in the days of the Kaiser. One military development in Germany has been the establishment of large numbers of underground airdromes—safe from bombardment by enemy planes in war time.

The answer of his Idaho colleague follows: "Dear Arthur: 'You are absolutely right. We should lose no time in beginning work on a farm program. I think you are just the man to do it and send me a copy. "BORAH."

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Temples Are Not Made With Hands

THE supreme court has moved into its 20 million dollar temple of justice, the newest architectural wonder in the nation's capital. One may watch with much concern the nice balancing of the scales of justice to see what weight all of those millions of money will show.

Fervently may we hope that the ancient charge that "justice be neither delayed nor denied" be not forgotten.

IT HAS never yet been shown that magnificent settings are either necessary or useful to free government. Augustus Caesar boasted that he found the city of Rome "made of brick and left of marble." But he could not conceive the people that the wheels of government moved more smoothly or the eyes of justice were more impartial.

Such pompous splendor expresses an emperor's pride and glory, but free peoples need no such fancy bubbles wrung from their sweat and labor.

IT HAS not been proved that public servants show more zeal for the public welfare when smothered with the gaudy works of men. Rather, the opposite is more likely to be true. Physical comforts tend to lulling ease and softening ways. Straight thinking and hard hitting do not come from silken couches and carved mosaics.

We can not assume that these nine old justices of the supreme court will render more significant services than did their long line of predecessors who knew not a tenth of the present-day luxury.

YE DIARY

Up betimes, and do take down my old fowling-piece from the wall, and Dame Juice doth query, "What are you going to do with that ancient musket?" And I do retort haughtily that I do be preparing for the hunting season, when I shall stock the larder with all manner of wilde fowl. And Dame Juice doth snort: "Well zany, while you're waiting for the duck hunting season to open, you might try stocking the wood-box in the kitchen with kindling!" A pox on such a wyle!

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

When my friend Martin Murray, of Huntington Beach, picked Wednesday, the sixteenth, for the heaviest downpour of the season, I says, oh, what a lovely day to be caught in the rain! So I put Murray down as a friend of the rancher, a water conservationist, an orthodox, and with all the credulity at my disposal marched valiantly out to get soaked. Reluctant to lose my faith in my beach friend several marches and retreats were made during the day in order to show the fullest measure of confidence on my part, but try as I might I couldn't get caught in Murray's rain. Why, even the traffic cops couldn't catch me!

But Murray has the courage of his convictions even if it didn't rain. He made thirteen other forecasts which indicates he is not superstitious. If there wasn't anything else to make me sympathetic with his predictions it is number thirteen. But then you know a prophet is not without success except in his own locality. There was a heavy rain in the north part of the state, and it wasn't Murray's fault if the Tehachapi blocked delivery. That old mountain has ran interference for a lot of rain storms. But its asking too much of our faith to move it. Old top, I've watched the sunlight change to shadows, waited for the clouds to gather and the rain to fall to confirm your prediction, but nothing doing. Nobody knows how dry I am.

I used to watch with all the eagerness of an orange rancher the forecasts made by the Lompoc prophet, Gin Chow, when he was in the forecasting business, but he went away where I hope it rains occasionally. Haven't heard from him pushed over by a hit and run Harry Carr he is neglecting an obligation to his publicity manager which is unardonable.

I've got a book of Chow's Chinese proverbs and weather forecasts. He interludes with some personal experiences such as getting pushed over by a hit and run driver. His progenitors went into the prediction business before Gin was ever thought of.

Oh, well, Martin, don't get discouraged. You got another storm coming the thirty-first of October, and by that time your meteorography research may be so conclusive that we will get enough rain to make up for the one which failed to arrive Wednesday.

And furthermore about that rain. I talked with my friend C. M. McCain and we are getting a trifle uneasy. There are symptoms that some promoter out on the desert is getting ready to send through the Cajon pass one of those unwelcome storms which have more heat in 'em than Earl Edgar ever dreamed of. So before the wind arrives, which carries with it more surplus electricity than is lost on a transmission line from Huntington Lake down to Santa Ana's substations, will you do your level best to precede it with a generous supply of water?

Then comes along an optimist who says don't cross the bridge until you come to it, and when I ask him if he was ever in Ethiopia following an Italian invasion, he didn't know whether there was a bridge in or out. By the way why wouldn't Culbertson do right well in Ethiopia? He could lay down a bridge barrage quicker than the Italian army could destroy it. Let's give him the contract. Course I rather see some local contract-or get the job, like Dick Ewert, Wade Warner, Dr. Patterson or Dr. Hatfield, but New York is closer and Culbertson would take the best of it in the bidding owing to the lesser mileage and other advantages.

Still lookin' for rain. Took a casual glance at old Saddle Back for an answer, and didn't get it. That old sentinel ought to know what's coming down on the other side. There was sort of a hazy atmosphere hanging over the peaks all day long. Had a sort of threatening appearance. Was going to ask Albert Perkins what he thought about it, as he's been up there several times, but couldn't reach him. Suppose I'll get the answer if I wait long enough. Yep, got it last night.

The best tip received was from a wisecracker who thought I might be able to get some information out of Cliff Rainey. If I encounter many more like that it can keep dry all winter so far as I am concerned.

Well, Murray, I'm going to stand by you till the clouds burst. You can't miss every day. Nobody does these days. So keep up the appointments with the rain god, and if you get few clouds it will only confirm the publicity by the water bonds committee. It may cause some damage but there's some satisfaction in having a prediction confirmed.
